Apology Riles U.S. Congress

Acheson Under Fire; Bridges Terms Action Before London Members 'A Shocking Thing'

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson is going to have to do some explaining to Congress about his reported apology to Britain for not telling that country in advance of the United States bombing last Monday of North Korean power stations.

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep., N.H.) told the Senate Thursday the apology—if made—was "a shocking thing."

And Senator William Knowland (Rep., Calif.), who brought the matter to the Senate's attention by reading a London news report about it, demanded that a full text of Acheson's remarks be made available to Congress.

Knowland said if Britain wants a bigger voice in the conduct of the Korean War, he would have no objection provided Britain assumes a larger share of the burden.

The London account said Acheson is reported to have made the apology to about 200 members representing both Houses of Parliament during a 20-minute meeting Thursday.

Acheson was reported to have told them U.S. officials had intended to notify Britain's defense minister, Earl Alexander, and Selwyn Lloyd, Britain's minister of state for foreign affairs.

But, he is reported to have explained due to a mix-up over whether a state or defense department official was to make the notification neither was informed.

The London report said Acheson justified the raid at length in his talk with the British legislators and was applauded at the end.

GUNTHER'S U.S. ELECTION SERIES STARTS SATURDAY

At its convention in Chicago starting July 7, the Republican Party of the U.S. will choose its presidential candidate for 1952.

Because of the importance to world affairs of the man the U.S. selects as its next president, Canadians are almost as interested in the party's choice as are Americans. To acquaint its readers with the story of what is going on the Victoria Times tomorrow will publish the first of a series of five articles by John Gunther, famed author of "Inside Europe," "Inside U.S.A." and other books.

His series, written exclusively for the NEA service and The Times will be entitled "Inside the Republican Party" Starting tomorrow it will be carried daily thereafter.

Premier May Recall House For Big Event

OTTAWA, June 27 (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today "momentous decisions" in the international field may make it necessary for Parliament to meet again before next November.

He made the statement before obtaining approval of a motion adjourning the current session, when his work is concluded, to Nov. 20. The work is expected to be completed either Saturday or early next week.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, at first objected to the proposal that Parliament adjourn rather than prorogue.

He withdrew his objection after Mr. St. Laurent said it is proposed to start the regular 1953 session Nov. 20 in an effort to complete work by late April or early May. This would enable members to attend the Queen's Coronation June 2.

Mr. St. Laurent said the international situation has not worsened, but it has reached a position where momentous decisions may be reached. Such decisions might require Parliament to meet.

Boos, Shouts Feature Hectic Ottawa Debate

Commons Thrown Into Uproar in Side Battle Involving Diefenbaker, McCusker, Coldwell

OTTAWA, June 27 (CP)—The Commons was thrown into an uproar today in a side battle stemming from its continuing debate on foot-and-mouth disease.

Liberals, Progressive Conservatives and the C.C.F. entered the 15-minute scrap touched off by a Liberal's charge Thursday night that John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre) had "reneged" on an agreement for quick passage of a bill to compensate south Saskatchewan farmers who lost cattle through the disease.

When the shouting, booing members had been calmed eventually by Speaker Ross Macdonald, this was the upshot:

1. Dr. E. A. McCusker (L.-Regina), who made the charge, accepted Mr. Diefenbaker's statement that he knew of no such agreement.

2. Dr. McCusker apologized to M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, for including him in the "reneging" accusation.

3. Mr. Diefenbaker, at the speaker's direction, withdrew a statement that Dr. McCusker has a "vested interest in his own insignificance."

4. Mr. Diefenbaker, out of the house Thursday night when Dr. McCusker mentioned his name in the foot-and-mouth debate, precipitated the fight today by calling for a retrial.

Dr. McCusker promptly demanded a retraction of Mr. Diefenbaker's statement.

Mr. Diefenbaker retracted and Dr. McCusker accepted the Lake Centre member's statement that he knew of no agreement involving him.

Then Agriculture Minister Gardiner, George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, and Mr. Coldwell got into the incident as partisans banged desks, booed and yelled.

Mr. Gardiner said there had been an "arrangement," but he added Dr. McCusker has been wrong in saying Mr. Coldwell violated it.

Mr. Drew said "most emphatically" that the Progressive Conservatives broke no undertaking concerning the foot-and-mouth compensation bill passed early this session.

Mr. Coldwell, who had not heard Mr. Gardiner above the noise, said he had not delayed the bill in any way; Dr. McCusker was "going on his imagination" and, if the House wanted to hear about foot-and-mouth, he'd tell it a few things.

Mr. Gardiner mollified the C.C.F. leader, and then the Progressive Conservatives demanded an outright withdrawal from Dr. McCusker.

Eventually the House settled for his acceptance of Mr. Diefenbaker's statement, with Dr. McCusker volunteering the apology to Mr. Coldwell.

Operators Reject New L.R.B. Formula

Board Urged Bargaining Resume in I.W.A. Strike

Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., spokesman for 162 coastal logging and lumber operators, today rejected a second proposal from the Labor Relations Board to bring an end to the 13-day strike of 32,000 coastal loggers.

The board's proposal suggested resumption of bargaining July 4, to last until July 15, and with no question of legal status arising and no men returning to work.

Last week the International Woodworkers of America (I.W.A., C.C.L.), representing the loggers and millworkers, turned down a board suggestion involving returning to work and taking part in a government-supervised strike vote.

F.I.R.L. rejected the proposal because they "bargained in good faith and obeyed all terms of the I.C. and A. Act."

"There can be no basis whatever for good industrial relations unless employers, employees and the Labor Relations Board preserve the laws and respect the sanctity of signed contracts," it stated in a letter to the board.

J. Stewart Alsbury, president of the I.W.A. district council, said from Vancouver at press time, that the proposal was being considered.

"There will be an announcement as soon as possible," he said.

The labor board suggested that negotiators of both factions meet July 4 to renew bargaining before a mutually-agreed-upon mediator.

It proposed that this new bargaining continue until agreement has been reached or until a termination date mutually accepted.

The termination date for bargaining should not be earlier than July 15, the L.R.B. suggested.

The proposal does not include a request for the workers to return to work before negotiations resume, as in last Saturday's L.R.B. proposal. (Operators have been refusing to resume negotiations while the workers are engaged in an admittedly illegal strike.)

There has been no settlement to date in the present dispute between contractors and carpenters, that has about 5,000 building tradesmen out of work on Vancouver Island and the mainland.

Contractors in Vancouver rejected a Labor Relations Board proposal to grant a 10-cent-per-hour pay boost and other benefits, claiming that "building costs in British Columbia are at the moment the highest in the whole of Canada."

"Any proposed increase in building costs would constitute a serious threat not only to the building industry, but to the whole economy of the province," contractors announced.

They reiterated their original stand to pay $2 per hour instead of the $2.50 asked by the union on the mainland and up-Island.

Glassworkers Take Strike Vote Tonight

Ballot Follows Award Rejection

Victoria glassworkers, members of a section of the painters' union, will cast ballots tonight in a government-supervised strike vote at the Knights of Pythias Hall.

Decision to apply for the vote followed the glassworkers' rejection of a conciliation board majority report recommending a pay increase of 9.6 cents per hour.

The union asked for increases of 50 cents for glassworkers and 96 cents for journeymen. Present wages range downward from the $1.39 per hour paid journeymen.

A strike vote among Victoria painters is almost complete, with a majority to date in favor of striking. A meeting of the painters' union will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. to consider further action.

Two Arrests Mark Race War in South Africa

By ARTHUR GAYSHON

JOHANNESBURG, June 27 (AP)—Security police arrested two leaders of South Africa's non-white campaign against racial discrimination today.

The campaign started Thursday and police seized 140 persons for violations of segregation laws. Demonstrators are intentionally violating the laws and courting arrest. The idea is to arouse South Africa's 10,000,000 non-whites to similar tactics and flood the country's jails beyond capacity.

The two men arrested at their headquarters today were Yusuf Cachalia, secretary of the campaign, and Nelson Mandela, a negro member of the executive for the African National Congress.

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

George Brand, speaking to Normal School graduates at their banquet Tuesday night, remarked that more young men than ever before were going into teaching as a career. They weren't just taking a quick trip through training courses for stop-gap employment while they looked around for something better. They were, he said, planning their lives around the profession.

You listened to him and you thought he might be right. You hoped he was, but you had some reservations. You figured he was saying the proper thing at a Normal School banquet and voicing the type of statement you'd expect from a member of the faculty.

Still, you wondered a little. You remembered the boys who had gone through Normal in other years and you started to count the ones who had stuck with the classroom for a while before shifting to something else.

Then you might have heard the story of one of this week's graduates. He looked a little more mature than most of the other class members, and you noticed, when he responded to one of the toasts, that he spoke directly, knew what he had to say and seemed to have sized things up in a workmanlike way.

You'd have found, if you made inquiries, that he graduated with an engineering degree from U.B.C. before the war. You'd have learned that he gave a pretty fair account of himself in the army before returning to the firm for which he worked before he joined up. Since his discharge, you might have been told, he'd tried other jobs and done them competently.

Then last year he figured things out and decided he wanted to work among youngsters, to see if he could get across to them the instruction and the ideas he thought children should learn in school. So he went to Normal.

More Attractive to Men

If you checked with the department of education you'd have found that he wasn't the only example of the masculine trend to school teaching as a life-time occupation. George Brand wasn't offering mere pleasanties to a conditioned audience.

You might have come to that conclusion on several other grounds, had you thought about it. There always have been men who have made teaching their job and have been satisfied with its returns.

There were others who went into teaching because they liked it and stayed until they thought they couldn't afford to remain in the profession any longer. The cash rewards weren't competitively high enough in comparison to other forms of employment.

Teachers nowadays, and Normal School students, don't go into the game to become rich. Off hand you won't single out many who have been able to buy a yacht and lustily a two-car garage on the salaries they're paid. But they do get by more easily now than they used to.

Fifteen years ago a high school teacher earned approximately $3,200 a year if he had a senior position. Principals went up to $4,000. The local scale for 1949-50 started the young high school teacher off at $1,800, achieved an average of $3,400 throughout the division, and ran up as high as $4,200 for topflight seniors. During the same year, Victoria's scale established an average of $2,390 for elementary teachers, with a $3,240 top, and carried principals to a maximum of $4,200 for a 10-month year. High school principals could earn $1,300 more.

Since then salaries have advanced about 15 per cent.

Sweetening the Pot

In addition to that, school teaching carries a pension. It's not lavish, but it's something, with the government making a 7 per cent contribution to it. There's reportedly a strong possibility of upward revision in its benefits, too.

So more men are going into the business—or profession as they like to call it. They feel they can afford to. Some of them have encountered a certain amount of disillusionment in other occupations. They've come to know the fluctuations in earning power that apply to other jobs. And they don't seem to be too highly impressed by the promise of the quick buck.

It all adds up to a pretty satisfactory picture for parents with youngsters now hitting school age. The new popularity of teaching for the conscientious male promises a little more stability to a profession which is constantly being prodded off balance by Dan Cupid's attacks on the feminine section.

Geographic B.C. Boundary Far to South

The province of British Columbia, geographically, should form part of "a North American Chile," stretching from Alaska to lower California, Dr. Wallace N. Sage, head of U.B.C.'s history department, told members of the B.C. Historical Association at the provincial library Thursday.

The natural line of cleavage between Oregon and California is definitely more obvious than is the international boundary along the 49th Parallel, and through the Gulf Islands and the Strait of Georgia," he said.

Dr. Sage said despite the geographical position of B.C., the province is being steadily integrated with the national economy of Canada.

"B.C. is definitely Canadian," he said.

He pointed out in the First World War, B.C. battalions were made up in large part of men born in the British Isles. In the Second World War, the majority of men were born in B.C., he said.

Big 3 Ministers Meet On German Unification

Acheson, Eden, Schuman Confer on Answer To Russia's Note Calling for Conference

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—The Big Three foreign ministers met here today to decide the west's latest answer to Russia on the question of German unification.

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States sat down with Britain's Anthony Eden and France's Robert Schuman to put the finishing touches to their reply to a Soviet note calling for four-power negotiations on Germany's future.

Out of the meeting was expected to come a final decision on when, where and on what terms the three Western countries would join Russia in planning a united Germany.

The Soviet note, delivered May 25, protested the signing by the Western countries of a "peace contract" with the West German government at Bonn and the inclusion of West Germany in the projected European army. It made plain that Russia would not consider any arrangement between the Western powers and the Bonn government binding on any future all-German government.

The Western Allies want a neutral commission to determine whether free elections can be held in both parts of the divided country. The Russians want such an investigation by the four occupation powers only, a group in which they would have a veto.

Inkrit, who took over the controls, said he planned to land at Bologna but overshot it. Practically out of gas, he had to bring the plane down here near Perugia, in central Italy. They landed on an old airfield now planted in grain.

They said they planned their escape for three months because "things are bad" in Yugoslavia.

Inkrit, who took over the controls, said he planned to land at Bologna but overshot it. Practically out of gas, he had to bring the plane down here near Perugia, in central Italy. They landed on an old airfield now planted in grain.

They said they planned their escape for three months because "things are bad" in Yugoslavia.

The three mechanics—Vilim Inkrit, 33, a former pilot in the Yugoslav air force; Bogdan Zigic, 25, and Josip Tirik, 22—seized the plane Thursday as it was on a regular flight from Zagreb to Pola, south of Trieste in Yugoslavia. They took over the plane at pistol point.

CRUISING FOR BOOZING O.K. IN U.K.

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—Britain's highest court today approved the old custom of cruising for boozing.

Rayner Goddard, Britain's lord chief justice, ruled specifically that pub closing hours have nothing to do with fun and games on the Thames.

And the same goes for bars on the other inland waters, sea ports, airways and railroads.

News of the finding was greeted by drinkers, boat owners and the state-owned air and rail services. All were shaken when a Liverpool magistrate held three months ago that pub hours of the district were binding on bars afloat, aloft or a-rail.

Average saloon hours in Britain are 11.30 a.m. to 3 p.m. and 5 p.m. to 10.30 p.m.

The court ruling rescuing the imperilled custom came in a case in which two boat-owning brothers sued themselves to test the decision.

The Western Allies want a neutral commission to determine whether free elections can be held in both parts of the divided country. The Russians want such an investigation by the four occupation powers only, a group in which they would have a veto.

Out of the meeting was expected to come a final decision on when, where and on what terms the three Western countries would join Russia in planning a united Germany.

The Soviet note, delivered May 25, protested the signing by the Western countries of a "peace contract" with the West German government at Bonn and the inclusion of West Germany in the projected European army. It made plain that Russia would not consider any arrangement between the Western powers and the Bonn government binding on any future all-German government.

$1,000,000,000 In Steel Lost

PITTSBURGH, June 27 (AP)—The country-wide steel strike, taking a bigger bite out of the United States economy each day, already has cost the steel companies nearly $1,000,000,000 in lost production.

Vitality-needed steel sells at $110 a ton. Since Philip Murray ordered 650,000 of his United Steelworkers (C.I.O.) to strike

June 2 nearly 10,000,000 tons of production have been lost. It is impossible to guess how much the strike has cost in dollars and cents. It now is hitting almost all sections of the U.S. economy.

Clarence B. Randall, president of Inland Steel Company feels there isn't a chance for a compromise on one big, if not the most important issue—the union shop. In a statement at East Chicago, Ind., Thursday, Randall termed the union's demand for a union shop the only issue in the present strike.

Condensed from CP, AP, and UP Dispatches

ARRESTED—Two amateur art thieves are under arrest today for attempting to steal three famous modern art masterpieces worth more than $200,000 at the Paris Museum of Modern Art.

The youths, both 19, cut two paintings from the frames with a razor and were working on a third when the night watchman caught them Thursday night.

All three paintings can be repaired, experts say.

One of those removed from its frame was a Renoir worth about $110,000 owned by the Chicago Institute of Art. The other was a Bonnard owned by a French collector, worth about $30,000.

The Chicago Renoir was being shown in Paris on loan from Chicago on a two-month exhibition of masterpieces of the 20th century sponsored by the Congress for Cultural Freedom.

The thieves were named as Michel Panissieres and Pierre Absentein, both students.

WEATHER—Cool air brought relief from intense heat to many northern areas of the United States today. But no break was in sight for the sun-baked southern half of the U.S.

The toll of deaths in three days of record-breaking heat mounted to 61. Thousands of cases of heat prostration and heat exhaustion were reported.

Col. James Osman, weather bureau meteorologist in New York, reported that "the cool air is coming in quite steadily from eastern Canada."

Relief also was expected in New Jersey.

WRANGLING—In London, the House of Commons was up all Thursday night wrangling over a modification in the road-safety law. The session lasted until 4:30 a.m.—more than 14 hours.

The bill was defeated but since it was not a matter of government policy, the government was not required to resign.

The bill provided modifications to make it easier for foreign drivers to drive in Britain—a United Nations proposal. Some Conservatives voted with Labor in demanding that all foreigners be required to pass British tests.

EXPANSION—Roy H. Thomson, head of the Thomson group of newspapers, has announced a $250,000 expansion program for the Moose Jaw Times-Herald.

A new plant will be built and a 24-page press installed. The building will have 16,000 feet of floor space and "every latest development conceivable will be included," Mr. Thomson said in Moose Jaw, Thursday.

It is hoped that the building will be ready for occupancy by next spring.

AUSSIE URANIUM CHECK—CANBERRA, June 27 (Reuters)—Three United States experts will arrive here soon to keep permanent liaison between the U.S. and Australia on the development of Australia's uranium resources. It was learned today.

One is expected to stay here in the federal capital while the others go to the uranium fields in South Australia and the northern territory.

Mrs. J. L. Plaskett, left, and Dr. W. Sage.

HIS STAR UNDIMMED

Distinguished Scientists Honor Late Dr. Plaskett

The lone eye of the 73-inch telescope peered out into space, while at its base gathered the most distinguished group of astronomers ever to assemble in Victoria.

Their purpose, to honor the memory of the man whose intensity and single-minded drive had brought the then-world's largest telescope to Vancouver Island.

Dr. John Stanley Plaskett, C.B.E., who died in 1941, saw his dream of an astrophysical observatory come true in 1918.

Thursday evening, his widow heard his work described in glowing terms before members of the American Astronomical Society of the Pacific. Then she unveiled a plaque, erected by the Historic Sites and Monument Board of Canada, which set forth in simple terms her husband's career as an internationally famous astronomer.

The board was represented by Dr. Walter Sage, who said that other plaques planned for this area included one dedicated to the memory of Emily Carr, and two historic sites plaques, on the Pemberton-Holmes building, site of old Fort Victoria, and on the new post office, approximate site of the home of Richard Blanshard, first governor of Vancouver Island.

PORT ALBERNI, June 27—Soap-box racing champions from all points on Vancouver Island have entered the derby to be held July 1 down Third Avenue Hill here.

Defending champion Norman Wilkinson of Victoria will be among the 11 Class A entries from outside points. Mayor Loran Jordan of Port Alberni and Mayor Ben Wright, Alberni, will present prizes.

Saanich Observatory Praised

The biggest is not necessarily the best, in the scientific world of astronomy.

Take the word of Dr. Otto Struve, who, in his daily work, uses the two largest telescopes in the world, the 100 and 200-inch scopes at Mount Wilson and Palomar observatories.

"The Dominion Astrophysical Observatory here can and does perform work that cannot be duplicated by any other observatory," he said, following dedication of a plaque to Dr. J. S. Plaskett.

Dr. Plaskett, first director of the observatory.

"In many ways, it is the best in the world. Size alone does not make a telescope great, although you need 'bigness' to reach far into space.

The working schedule here, with long periods devoted to the study of one body, makes for excellent results. Also the spectrographic equipment Dr. Plaskett planned is still the best there is—it is quickly adjustable, immensely accurate."

Canada Can't Pay U.S. Wages

IN THE CANADIAN STRIKES NOW involving some 60,000 workers throughout the country and in the prospective strikes which may involve many more, it is popular to compare Canadian with American wages, to argue that every Canadian worker is entitled to the same wage as his counterpart in the United States. This argument was used on the air the other night by the leaders of the British Columbia lumber strike.

It is an attractive but a thoroughly unsound argument which will not stand up to a moment's investigation.

The economy of the United States can pay higher wages than the economy of Canada, in general, because it is a richer economy. The wage rates of Canada, of course, could be raised to the American level but that would not make the people of Canada any richer, because no manipulation of money wages of itself can increase the supply of goods available to the consumer. Money wages raised above the real level of production will merely raise prices. A few groups who get the extra wages could benefit temporarily at least but the nation would be no better off after this new inflation.

In the first place, the natural resources of Canada do not appear to be as large as those of the United States. Further discoveries and new scientific methods of extraction may alter that judgment but at the moment it does not seem that in our country, containing so much land presently useless, we own as much total natural wealth as our neighbors.

In any case potential wealth in the ground, however great, is not usable wealth. It can be used only when it is extracted and processed. And at the moment we are extracting and processing less wealth per capita than the American people.

A rough measurement of this fact may be made by comparing the populations and the gross production of the two nations.

The United States contains some 150,000,000 people and is producing at the rate of well over $300 billions a year altogether. That is about $2,000 for every man, woman and child.

In Canada there are some 14,000,000 people producing about $21 billions a year or $1,500 per person.

This does not mean that, on average, the per capita income of the American or the Canadian would amount to these figures. Gross production must provide not only the living of the people but the cost of repairing and expanding the productive plant. No economic system can consume all it produces and still maintain its productive machinery, much less expand it.

It will be seen even from this rough measurement that the American people are richer than the Canadian and their wages reflect that fact, which no change in wage cheques can alter. The Americans are richer, not because they have greater natural undeveloped wealth per capita (for obviously we have more per capita if not in total) but because they are extracting and processing more.

This they are able to do because, per capita, they possess more productive machinery, more mechanical power than we do. But we are catching up. We have achieved the second highest standard of living in the world already and before long may well equal or surpass the American standard.

The point is that we have not equalled it yet and cannot equal it by any mere adjustment of wages. On the contrary, if we raise our wages too much, and hence inevitably raise our prices, we could reduce our standard of living because we could price our goods out of the foreign market, particularly the American market, thus depressing our level of production and employment. That very real danger confronts Canada in the present labor struggle.

This is not to say, of course, that Canadian wages cannot and should not be raised now or in the future. But it cannot be argued that they should be raised simply because wages in corresponding work south of the border are higher. That fact is irrelevant. If American wages were taken as the proper Canadian standard we would only fool ourselves by the familiar technique of inflation without adding a pound of extra goods to our supply.

To Back Up Our Word

SOME OF THE CRITICS OF CANADIAN government expenditures on armaments are still judging the need on a pre-1939 or even pre-1914 basis.

As a nation of 14 millions, inhabiting a land with resources able to support a much larger population, we constitute a partial vacuum. The population problem will be solved with the passage of time through natural increase and immigration. But it should be solved in the way and at the pace which we most prefer. The world is now in such a state that conquest is a threat to be seriously considered in assessing our future. We must be strong if we are to survive as a nation.

That survival can be aided by our own efforts in arming ourselves. But even more important, it can be aided through alliance with friendly powers who would aid us in time of need. Such are our relations with the Commonwealth, even though unwritten. Such is our understanding with the United States, both written and unwritten. Such are our formal commitments through the North Atlantic pact and other agreements.

But if we wish others to guarantee our security, we must be prepared to help guarantee theirs. And if our guarantee is to be anything more than words we must have arms to back it up.

The other day the Canadian Parliament agreed to guarantee Western Germany against aggression. That undertaking followed naturally from our adherence to the new N.A.T.O. clause extending mutual security to the European defense community.

Such a commitment is a serious step for Canada to take. But it is a logical one and a necessary one. To take it without the men and guns that alone could give it reality would be a false and dangerous action. For that reason any tendency to restrict our rearmament program at this time would be counter to our national policy and our best interests.

Side-Stepping the Law in U.S. Shoes

ACCORDING TO INQUIRIES MADE by this newspaper, one Victoria shoe repair firm says seven of 10 pairs of women's shoes brought to it are American made. The same inquiry discloses a dealer's estimate that 15 to 20 per cent of those shoes are smuggled into the city by day trippers who wear old footwear on journeys across the Strait and wear new shoes on their return home.

The newspaper account states that Victoria merchants do not like the practice but are not as seriously worried by it as their fellows in Eastern Canada, where the smuggling traffic is presumably heavier.

Obviously, women who follow this procedure on visits to Seattle or other U.S. points, without staying over 48 hours to legalize their purchases, are breaking the law. They are breaking it blithely and with virtually no public censure.

As far as the average citizen is concerned, they are merely out for bargains in the time-honored fashion of women shoppers. There is little inclination to see their practice as a conscientious protest against Canadian tariff regulations.

They are merely getting the type of shoe, with the style and fit they want, at a lower price than the same article would cost them here.

There isn't any militancy in their action. They make no outcry against high protection for the Canadian shoe industry. They simply figure that they are saving money from household and shopping accounts.

But, in the process, the law is broken. That is a poor way to deal with the issue. If sufficient women are dissatisfied with the tariff on shoes, their recourse should be to parliament, where the law can be changed and the impost reduced. The law should not be trampled underfoot, even by milady's dainty pumps.

The Woods Deserve Respect

LAST WEEK END AN 11-YEAR-OLD boy slipped from the supervised hiking group of which he was a member, and ran off in the woods with the intention of circling back to surprise the other boys. Instead, he lost his way.

For the rest of the afternoon and early evening he tramped through the bush until he reached the shoreline of Finlayson Arm. There he was found by chance.

In the meantime a search had begun for him. Police had been notified and the South Vancouver Island Rangers had been asked to prepare for a night hunt.

Trouble and anxiety were the price of his juvenile whim.

Every Man His Country Seat

A COMMUNITY AS GARDEN CONSCIOUS as Greater Victoria will register immediate interest in the invention of a University of Manitoba professor—a tool that combines all gardening operations in one.

A news item describes the implement as operating like a shooting stick—that handy although sometimes precarious perch favored by English race-goers and country ramblers. Pushing various buttons produces a hoe, a spade and other Incidents of that nature may do much to discourage the desirable and healthful practice of hiking. Parents may note the instance and think twice before allowing their own sons to go on rambles in wild country.

It would be a pity if such were the case. At the same time it is important to impress upon youngsters a definite respect for the woods. The big trees and the bush are there to be enjoyed, but there aren't any paved sidewalks through them. It is easy enough to be lost off the beaten trail—as many chronologically older hunters have found to their distress and the public's inconvenience. And the results can be infinitely more serious than those of last week end.

The idea appears to have merit. But it is significant that the inventor is a professor of zoology rather than horticulture. We may imagine that he is basically more interested in animal life than flora, and to that end will not neglect to add to his creation the most essential part of the shooting stick—namely, the collapsible seat-frame—on which one may rest and survey the work just done and the still longer row yet in prospect.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVE BROCK

I SEE that some wag or other was suggesting in the U.B.C. Graduate Chronicle that besides having a Dept. of Electrical Engineering, we should have quite a different thing . . . a Chair of Electricity. That is to say, an electric chair. I don't know whom he wanted to electrocute . . . certain professors? He fails to make this plain. But it is a charming idea. The rich man who founded the Chair could name his own pet grouches . . . students he considered unfit for studies, or studies he considered unfit for students.

WHEN I am a rich man, I am going to endow a chair or two myself. Not a Chair of Barbery, since there are already barbers' colleges. A Chair of Barbery sounds rather nice. Since we're going to be barbarians anyhow, students should be taught certain short cuts to barbarism. This will keep them from being reactionaries . . . from dwelling in the past . . . from the horrible charge of nostalgia and wanting to put the clock back. In fact, from knowing anything about the past or learning anything from it.

STORY WITH A KICK HAVE you read any of the ghastly works of one Spillane? They sell by the millions, because they are crammed with very elementary writing and very elementary lust, murder, and sadism. They stink of the psychopathic ward, which seems to be a popular odor. I bought one out of curiosity, and managed to read quite a few pages before being sick.

A friend saw it on my table and was shocked. "Good God, Dave, what's this?" says he. "Oh, that?" says I. "That's the Sadist Story Ever Told."

Here is the sort of stuff Mr. Spillane spills at us: "Her eyes burned at me like two red coals. (Or possibly two bad colds.) I shot her in the stomach and kicked her teeth out. (Teeth prey on his mind.) A psychiatrist might be interested to discover why. Then I kicked her good-bye. On my way out I saw a sadist. I hate sadists. So I kicked his teeth out. Then I pulled his finger nails off, as a change from teeth." They are not stories you can get your teeth into, but Mr. Spillane extracts a lot of teeth from them.

LAST CHANCE, FOLKS ON July 18, your chance will expire. Your last chance to get a pair of a soap company's amazing all-purpose magnetized household shears. For only one box-top plus a few cents, you get these shears that will pick up pins, open bottles, crack nuts, keep themselves sharp, drive tacks, lift lids, and heaven knows what. (No I am not inventing this . . . I wish I were.) Those sound like pretty good shears. The only ones I prefer are those I have just made myself.

By cutting out the top of this column and mailing it to me with fifty cents (in Mexican currency only, please) you can obtain for your husband or grandfather a pair of my super-duper shears that drive cars, magnify faults, pick up girls, open safes, lift elevators that have got stuck between floors, light cigarettes or dark corners, and keep not only themselves sharp but keep your wits sharp too. They keep your wits sharp by making you wonder what to do with them next.

VICE IN these days of vice-presidents in charge of this and that, with such a great abundance of them that we have to build new skyscrapers to accommodate them all, I think it a great shame that we can't have vice-presidents too, going round giving advice. Giving advice is the sign and badge of our present civilization.

SPACE TO BREATHE WHENEVER my little house seems unusually full of its four children, I pick up the latest number of Country Life and read its advertisements of big old English houses, and pretend I am selecting one for my own needs. Naturally, it makes me sad to think of the recent owners abandoning these heavenly places because of the new social system, known as Security. But it cheers me up to pretend I am buying one.

Today I have bought a country place in Norfolk. The main house or hall has several dozen bedrooms . . . that should keep me busily sleeping for weeks on end. It also has a private chapel, a seven-story tower, and a moat. Other buildings on the property include a presbytery (whatever that is), lodges, 8 farms, 26 cottages, a school, and a pub.

IT SEEMS to me that if you have a chapel, a school and a pub in your back yard (so to speak), it will give your children a very broad education. And it will keep them off the streets, which is a parent's main worry. It's going to be great fun for me to be the teacher by day and gov'nor of the pub by night. What's yours, boys? Ten strokes of the cane, or a pint of mild-and-bitter? Or maybe a little sermon?

All Tied Up

Montreal Star The steel strike in the United States is raising a classic, text-book illustration of the working of that country's constitution. It is designed to provide checks, balance and delays. It fragments power, and all parties to the steel dispute are taking full advantage of this fact.

If the Canadian Parliament passes legislation in which the government refuses to act on, there are immediate, spectacular results. The government either resigns or is thrown out, and, in all likelihood, a general election follows. Not so in the United States.

In Washington the President flatly refuses to invoke the Taft-Hartley Act. Congress could, theoretically, impeach him, but this drastic act is not even being considered. All Congress can do is to wait for an election which will give it a President who sees eye to eye with it. Elections cannot be called at will. They are fixed by law.

The result is delay, and more delay, which is exactly what the founding fathers wanted when, 150 years ago and with some misgiving, they entrusted the nation's fate to democratic processes.

FOR THE BLIND

On behalf of the blind citizens of Victoria I would like to acknowledge receipt of the sum of $1,800 being a donation from the Gyro Club towards the furnishing of the new Service Centre for the Blind at 1609 Blanshard Street.

In doing so, may I extend our most grateful thanks to all the members of the Gyro Club who worked so hard to make the "Red Mill," at the Royal Victoria Theatre, the grand success that it was; and especially we wish to express our gratitude to those members of the Gyro Club who have been so generous in their contributions to the fund. The money has been used to purchase furnishings for the auditorium, chairs, tables, stage curtain, record player, etc. articles that, down through the years, will be of great benefit to our blind citizens, and to blind visitors from all parts of the world.

E. BRETTELL, Honorary Victoria Director Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

HEADS, TAILS "Heads I win, tails you lose" seems to be the desire of those Labor spokesmen who discredit the value of the cost-of-living bonus now that the cost-of-living index is falling.

The escalator clause was introduced in wage contracts labor leaders hailed it; public confidence in union leadership is not strengthened by attacks on it, now that it can no longer be used to gain wage increases.

No fair-minded person would claim that labor should be denied a better standard of living as our nation's productivity increases, and labor cannot claim it has not had its full share of that increase. Union spokesmen are misinformed or deliberately misleading when they claim workers have not had a share in the benefits of increased productivity in the past dozen years or that purchasing power of wages has no more than kept even with higher living costs. Since 1939 the cost-of-living index has increased by 84 per cent while average weekly manufacturing earnings in the same period have increased by 167 per cent.

We have inflation today because incomes have increased faster than has productivity. The folly of wage increases not based on increased productivity can only lower our standard of living; a point that labor union economists should constantly point out to their members.

C. J. HARRIS, Secretary, The Canadian Unity Council, Toronto, Ont.

AROMA

Tel-opinion is very popular and is serving a very useful purpose here. The unfortunate "roaming aromas" in the Inner Harbor offers a very good challenge to the green-colored liquid so popular in homes, etc., nowadays.

"OLD ANGUS." P.S. It was worse in 1885 when we came here.

PAIR OF QUEENS

Times, June 24, speaks of a naval pageant to be held locally wherein will be included naval men in clothes of the ancient press gangs of Queen Elizabeth I.

There were no press gangs during her reign. All sailors, of every grade, were volunteers. People not much conversant with history can read in the opening chapters of "Westward Ho" of how completely free the sailors were in this "Golden Age" of Elizabeth I.

A letter (Times, June 24) says Elizabeth I was not a good Queen nor a wise one. That she tried to assassinate Mary Queen of Scots, finally signing the death warrant.

This flirty lady, Mary Queen of Scots, had married Francis Dauphin, and was for a short time Queen of France when the King, her husband, died. She was a member of the Medici family, this murderous outfit using her as a tool in their endless plotting against Elizabeth I. Good Queen Bess, to circumvent Medici plots, was finally obliged to decapitate poor Mary.

Queen Bess, to her everlasting honor, abolished (during her reign) burnings at the stake—a feat possibly hitherto unknown to history.

GLADYS SHRAPNEL, 1578 Clive Drive.

'We Must Be Ready'

(From a recent speech of Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent.)

THE foundations of combined strength we have already laid in the free world have given us a greater sense of security and grounds for hope that the war like decent people dread can be prevented.

I regret to say the precautions we have taken seem to have lulled some honest souls in our midst into a false sense of security, and to have induced them to join in agitation against the sacrifice and deprivations without which we cannot have any security.

"As our hopes of keeping the peace rise, as our sense of security grows, we in the free world are facing the greatest test of our understanding, our resolution, and our patience. It is so easy to forget why we feel more secure and so easy to forget to pay the premiums on the insurance or even ask ourselves whether we still need it.

"I myself am convinced that if we are not to lose the security now coming within our grasp we must be ready to keep the insurance, much as I hope we may never have the fire."

Fear

Toronto Globe and Mail

Ask any one familiar with life behind the Iron Curtain what is the most formidable deterrent to anti-Communist activity there and the answer will be promptly given—"the secret police." Fear is the principal weapon of the Communist rulers, fear of the ruthless terror that has enslaved Russia itself and half of Europe. The men in the Kremlin have good reason to rely on fear. It has served them well. They are using it now in their attempt to frustrate Western plans for a unification of free Europe, including the Bonn Republic.

Protection And the Public

By JOSEPH and STEWART ALSOP from Washington

A SIGNIFICANT story is told by two allied, but in some ways contrasting, orders recently issued by the American government. The first is an order that was secretly issued to take effect June 1. It limits the use of U.S. ports and the Panama Canal by Soviet and satellite shipping. And the limitations are so severe that, in effect, the major ports and the Canal have now been closed to all vessels from the Soviet sphere.

The need for such an order has long been obvious. The Canal and the ports are almost certainly the weakest links in the American defensive system. Let the Canal be blocked, and our naval strategy will be knocked galley west. Let the ports be put out of commission, and it will become impossible for the United States to supply its allies and sustain its own forces overseas.

Moreover, the Canal can be blocked, and any major harbors can be rendered useless, by the explosion of a single atomic bomb, which any seemingly innocent freighter can conceal in its hold.

This danger has long been debated in the National Security Council and elsewhere in the higher reaches of the government. The question was resolved this spring when the Coast Guard was told to safeguard the ports while the guardianship of the Canal was confided to the navy.

Order number two is more recent and is non-secret. It inaugurated the 24-hour air watch of great urban and industrial centres.

It has been much criticized, just as the order for closing the ports would no doubt be criticized if it conflicted with the interests, or even with the comfort, of any large group in this country. In the case of this second order, what has been concealed is the real motive for it.

The motive is all too simple. Six months ago, the Soviet strategic air force occupied its forward bases closest to this country, in Kamchatka. Since then, active Soviet air reconnaissance of this continent has been detected on several occasions.

Anyone can purchase aerial photographs of every strategic area in the United States. Hence the object of this Soviet air reconnaissance is obviously to test the effectiveness of our air warning and defense system.

None of the Soviet aircraft flying over Alaska and Canada has yet been intercepted. The main proofs of their presence have been the vapor trails they left behind. Hence our air warning and defense system is quite plainly far from satisfactory. Under the circumstances, the order for continuous air watching was, if anything, rather belated. But the air-watch will be only partly effective, because the true motive for it has been concealed. For the same reason, the civil defense program has been gutted by the Congress. Again, the purpose of this concealment has been to avoid stirring people up.

What strikes one in the histories of these two orders, in fact, is the peculiar schizophrenia that is revealed. The danger hanging over us is considered sufficiently great to justify the orders being issued.

But the impulse to hide this danger from the country, the impulse to be bland and reassuring, is also so strong that in one case the order itself was muffled, and in the other the easy and natural explanation of the order was hidden.

It is hard not to feel that telling the truth and taking the consequences is preferable to running so many risks.

Ups and Downs

By BRIAN TOBIN

"THESE days of psychiatry," said the Elevator Man, "they've developed quite a science in figuring out what you mean one thing when you say another. For instance, you claim you hate spiders, but what you really mean without knowing it, is that you still hate that skinny, dark-haired brother of your Uncle Ned's second cousin, who threw a big net over you, and scared you when you were a little lad. When you say, 'I like Ike' perhaps all you really mean is that you bet you'd look swell in a uniform. And maybe the reason you fell in love with that movie star (on the screen) was because she wore a hat like Mama used to years ago. Watch the step!"

"Down in Australia," said the Elevator Man, "they apparently aren't so much troubled with the double-meaning remarks, especially in parliament. In fact members make their meaning so plain to everyone they've had to draw up a list of words that mustn't be used in debates. There just wasn't any room for alternative meanings in words like liar, cur, thug, traitor, rat and scab. And even though there might be a little leeway in expressions like 'a sausage skin filled with wind and water and painted like a Chinese god,' you still didn't have much choice. You could figure there was no hidden compliment, anyway. So the boys are going to have to get a little more psychiatric in the land down-under. Even claiming a fella's statement is not in accordance with the facts, and he knows it isn't roundabout enough, the new rules say. If they want to call a man a liar after this they'll have to be more fancy with it. They'll have to at least leave the impression that the man isn't a liar by choice. Going down!"

"The catch is," said the Elevator Man, "that our language is so tricky. You can pour compliments on a fella, and yet everybody'll know, from some slight manner or accent, that you mean just the opposite. You can say, 'SMITH is not a liar,' and thereby damn the man next to him. You can say 'Smith is not a LIAR,' and mean all kinds of other things. Word control won't be enough. And thoughts cannot be censored."

Strawberry Time Brings Tasty Treats

New Methods To Eliminate Much of Work

There are few home-makers anywhere who do not look forward to these summer days, when the variety of fruits and vegetables... each in its own way... is a distinctive table treat. And before the last fruit of this abundant season is picked, the wisest of us will have saved part of this fruit to put summer freshness into winter meals... a wonderful way of extending good eating for our families, over the whole year. Luckily for all of us who are planning to "do down" fruits and vegetables, new methods have eliminated many hours of the fussing and jamming used to mean.

PLANNING FOR YOUR

INDIVIDUAL FAMILY NEEDS—All you veterans at home canning will need no advice about the numbers of jars of fruits and vegetables you will want to "do down." And you beginners can easily work out your particular needs if you have noted the frequency with which canned vegetables, fruits and jams have appeared on your grocery lists. Plan any special little gift jars of jams and jellies you will need, by adding to the amounts of your favorite preserves. From now until the end of October, while garden and orchard produce is at its peak of ripeness and flavor and on the market at the lowest cost, your home preserving project can show a really worthwhile saving on the yearly budget.

Just a few minutes spent assembling all the equipment ahead of time, for each particular jamming or jelling or canning project will pay you well once the process begins. Jars and sealers should be washed thoroughly in warm water and rinsed well. They should be in good condition, and, of course, you will take the precaution of discarding all those that are chipped or cracked. Ladies, colander, knives, the right size pans, and equipment for sealing should be

Timely Hints On Preserving Jams, Jellies

FULL ROLLING BOIL is a bubbling, steaming boil that cannot be stirred down.

HEAT—If heat is not strong enough when turned highest, cover the kettle closely while bringing mixture to a boil, and stir only occasionally. As soon as the mixture is boiling vigorously, remove the cover and proceed with the recipe.

PECTINS—Each recipe for powdered or liquid pectin is individually tested and does not allow for the substitution of powdered for liquid pectin or vice versa.

BREAKAGES are annoying, but they can be prevented. Most breakages occur when cool jars are put in hot water, when hot materials are poured into cold jars, or when hot jars are put on cold surfaces or in a draft. When pouring jams and jellies, a sterilized metal spoon in the jar will prevent cracking.

PARAFFIN WAX—For many reasons, old wax you may wish to re-use may have become dusty or deteriorated in some way. It is safest to use new paraffin wax every canning season.

SETTING—Some jellies with added pectin are designed to set slowly so that they are at their best, most "delicate" set when they are to be used. If jellies from some fruits were to set at once, they would be hard and tough after a few weeks storage. If you use added pectin you can count on jellies being balanced so that they require up to ten days to set after pouring.

WEAVING—Small amounts of syrup frequently separate from jellies and jams—but this will not harm preserves as long as yeast and mould do not form on the seepage. To avoid weeping—make sure there is 1/2 inch headspace between jelly mixture and the rim of the glass... seal correctly... cover tightly and store in a cool, dry place.

CRYSTALS form when too much sugar has been added or when juice has boiled too long, or when sealing has been delayed.

STORING—You can be sure that jams and jellies, properly sealed, will keep about a year, but flavors and colors of different jellies are retained for various lengths. Storage place should be cool, dry and dark. If only a kitchen cupboard is available, give jams and jellies storage space on the cooler, lower shelves.

Honey Orange Sauce—Blend honey into one cup orange juice to sweeten to taste. Add two tablespoons grated orange peel. Blend well. This is an excellent sauce to serve on waffles, hot cakes and French toast as well as on shortcake.

Ripe, juicy berries inspire home jelly-makers.

in one convenient spot in your kitchen. There's another thing, too; don't underestimate the role of the simple rubber jar ring. This item, small as it appears, plays a very important part in successful canning. Throw away all the old ones you may find around, and start the new season right with new rings with a brand name you can depend on. Only new rings of known and tested quality have the "liveness" which assures you the most complete seal. Each new rubber ring should be given a quick dip in boiling water just before it is adjusted to the top of the filled jar, and you'll find that any one of a variety of small metal tongs will do very well for this purpose. Test your jars ahead of time for air tightness too... a simple but necessary part of the job. Fill them with water, seal them, turn them upside down on a clean dry cloth and if none of the water seeps out you can be sure they will protect your preserves for as long as you would normally keep them.

Easy as home preserving, jamming and jelling has come to be, there are a few basic rules to follow to assure success. Once you get your stocks of fruits or vegetables, sorting is important for the best-planned cupboard. For instance, you will find it much more convenient later if you can the perfect green beans whole, then cut up the crooked or uneven ones for separate jars. Perfect tomatoes, too, should be canned together, left whole for salads or special winter occasions. The mis-shapen tomatoes, just as nutritious though not so eye-catching, can be quartered or put up as juice. Fruits offer even more possibilities. Strawberries, raspberries, peaches and cherries, to name a few, canned whole or in halves, will be the basis for numerous versatile desserts. But the spice of the cupboard comes with your jams and jellies. No one, these days, thinks of the jam cupboard as furnishing just "spread" for bread, and the occasional meat relish. Desserts, sauces, pastries, salads, sandwiches and entrees the year round can all be enhanced by the fresh fruit flavor of some jam, jelly or conserve.

NO NEED FOR UNCERTAIN RESULTS THESE DAYS

One of the most delightful things about today's jamming and jelling is the fact that we have the economy of using Viceroy Jar Rings that cost less and give a positive seal.

Molded gelatin salads are popular in warm weather. Dissolve a package of lemon-flavored gelatin in two cups hot apricot whole fruit nectar. When partially thickened fold in 1/2 cup each chopped celery and sliced strawberries, 1/2 cup chopped walnuts and one (three-ounce) package of cream cheese broken into small bits.

WHITE OR RED

VICEROY RUBBER FRUIT JAR RINGS

can discard the terms of grandmother's day... when some fruits were known as "good jellies" and others, in varying degrees, were considered very poor bets indeed for the jam cupboard. Good jellies, slow jellies... whatever they were called... science has simplified and controlled jam and jelly making to the point where even a beginner can be sure of success with all types of fruit... and with a minimum of effort. Combining the correct ratio of fruit, sugar and pectin, regardless of the kind of fruit on hand, is the basic rule to follow. And this can be done so simply when a natural fruit pectin is added.

EXTRA YIELD FOR YOUR TABLE

Quite apart from the fact that it is easy and as foolproof as can be, there are plenty of other advantages in using added pectin. For instance, with fruit pectin, you use the short-boil method of jam and jelly making... actually, there's only one minute of boiling time. Really a time saver! And here fruits, all fruits, can be used at the stage of ripeness where color and flavor are at their best. The short cooking helps to preserve this color and flavor, of course. Another tremendous advantage is the increased yield. With practically none of the fruit juice boiled away, the yield from the same amount of fruit is up to 50% more than the long boiling method gives.

BALANCING THE INGREDIENTS

We mentioned the correct ratio of fruit, sugar and pectin. To make good jelly, enough sugar must be used so that the finished product contains about 60%. This may sound hard to plan, but the point is that with added pectin, we don't have to plan it. Instructions accompanying commercial pectins give the exact amounts of each ingredient to maintain this successful ratio. And that's that! We must remember, though, that there are two types of commercial pectin... the crystals and the liquid. The recipes for these are not interchangeable... each carries its own marvelous variety of recipes with each package or bottle.

Now... in your jam and jelly making preparations you are going to need paraffin wax, and if you have any old wax on hand and are thinking of re-using it, we would advise you to throw this away too. Or, if you like, store it somewhere until some unorthodox but practical use for it comes to mind. In any case, don't use it for this season's preserves. It might spoil an otherwise successful batch of jelly for you. So it's best to play safe with fresh wax from the package. For melting the wax you will need a small double boiler, or other small container with a pouring lip, that will fit nicely over a pan of water. Never melt wax over direct heat.

THE IMPORTANCE OF PROPER SEALING

As you know, at every stage of jamming and preserving, a little care turns out to be excellent insurance for the total success of your project. This is especially true of the finishing touches... the proper sealing of jams and jellies. Once you have your jelly glasses filled, to about half an inch from the top, you are ready for sealing. Try to have a nice clean pour with no jelly rimming the inside of the glass, then pour the melted wax on in two separate layers. The first layer of 1/4 inch should be poured on at once and left to harden. Another 1/4 inch layer on top of this should give you the safest possible seal.

Slip metal tops on glasses after the second wax layer has hardened. If you are using jars that came with peanut butter or salad dressing, you have in all probability saved the tops, too. If not, circles of crisp paper laid across the top of the jar then held tight around the sides with rubber bands will keep the wax sealing surface of jars and jellies free of dust. This done, you can look with pride and satisfaction on your colorful rows of jams and jellies, knowing how much you will be counting on them for menus that make eating interesting and fun for your family.

Honeycomb Frosting—Beat one egg white with dash of salt until stiff enough to hold up in peaks, but not dry. Pour one-half cup honey in fine stream over egg white, beating constantly about four minutes, or until frosting holds its shape. (This is a delicate frosting and does not store well overnight. Cake should be frosted the day it is served.)

iced Tea—Make fresh tea double strength. Strain and pour over crushed ice in tall glasses. Serve with equal parts of honey and lemon juice well blended. Garnish with fresh mint leaves.

Flavour-seal jams, jellies, ALL foods better!

Hold Flavor Of Summer For Winter

SWEET CHERRY CONSERVE
4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
1 cup lemon juice
1 tablespoon grated lemon rind
1 lb. chopped seeded raisins
1 cup finely chopped nut meats
1 cup (2 lbs.) sugar
1 bottle liquid pectin

To prepare fruit: Stem and pit about 3/4 pounds fully ripe sweet cherries. Chop fine measure four cups into large saucepan and add lemon juice, lemon rind, raisins and nuts.

To make conserve: Add sugar to fruit in saucepan and mix well. Place over high heat, bring to full rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and at once stir in liquid pectin. Then stir and skim by turns for five minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover with wax. Makes about 11 six-ounce glasses.

Note: For stronger cherry flavor, add 1/4 teaspoon almond extract before ladling.

PEPPER RELISH
2 cups (1 lb.) prepared sweet peppers
1/2 cup vinegar
1/2 cup (1 1/2 lbs.) sugar
1 box crystal (powdered) fruit pectin
To prepare peppers: Cut open about 1 dozen medium-sized peppers and discard seeds. For best color use half green and half red peppers. Put through food chopper, turn, using sharp blade. Drain. Measure two cups into large saucepan. Add 1/2 cup vinegar.

Measure the sugar and set it aside. Add powdered pectin to the peppers in the saucepan and stir well. Place over high heat and stir until the mixture at once. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat and stir and skim by turns for five minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover with wax. Makes about 11 six-ounce glasses.

STRAWBERRY JAM
4 cups (2 lbs.) prepared fruit
1 cup (2 lbs.) sugar
1 box powdered pectin
To prepare fruit: Grind about two quarts fully ripe berries or crush completely one layer at a time, so that each berry is reduced to pulp. Measure sugar and prepared fruit into large kettle, mix well, bring to full rolling boil over hottest fire. Stir constantly before and while boiling. Boil hard two minutes. Remove from heat and stir and skim by turns for five minutes to cool slightly, to prevent floating fruit. Ladle quickly into glasses. Cover with wax. Makes about 11 six-ounce glasses.

RED CURRANT JELLY
6 cups (3 lbs.) juice
1/2 cup powdered pectin
To prepare juice: Grind about 3 1/2 quarts fully ripe red currants and crush thoroughly. Add 1 cup water, bring to a boil and simmer, covered for about 10 minutes. Strain in a jelly cloth or bag and squeeze out juice. Measure 6 cups juice into a very large saucepan.

To make jelly: Measure sugar and set aside. Place saucepan holding juice over high heat. Add powdered pectin and stir until mixture comes to a hard boil. At once stir in the sugar. Bring to a full rolling boil and boil hard for one minute, stirring constantly. Remove from heat. Pour quickly into glasses. Paraffin at once. Makes about 12 six-ounce glasses.

Tomato Juice—Red, fully ripe tomatoes makes the richest and brightest-colored juice. Be sure they are free from spots and cracks by trimming. Place in a large kettle and heat to boiling, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking. Reduce the heat and simmer for 15 minutes or until soft. Rub through a sieve until smooth. Measure in the above hot juice and seeds. Discard these. Reheat the juice by boiling. Pour it into hot sterilized jars, filling within 1/2 inch of the top. Add 1 teaspoon salt to each quart. Seal. No preservative is necessary. One quart of sound tomatoes makes about 18 quarts of juice.

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

Scores of the best performers at the sport of skeet and trap shooting—the shotgun artists who wham away at clay pigeon targets—will gather here from British Columbia points and south of the border next week-end for the biggest championship shoot ever held on local terrain.

Occasion is a double championship shoot. Skeeters will be gunning for the Vancouver Island championship, Saturday, and the B.C. 100-bird singles title will be the target of trap shooting entries Sunday. The big show will open Friday with preliminary practice shoots on both the trap and skeet ranges "and that day's program will be made up as the shooters desire," reported Victoria Gun Club prexy George Farmer.

Scene of action, by the way, will be at the club's grounds on Albert Head Road. Shooting will start at 1 p.m. Friday and at 9 a.m. on the following two days.

B.C. skeet shooters will be seeking possession of the Ted McFeely Perpetual Trophy Saturday in the 100-bird all-bore island championship event. There will be trophies for A, B, C classes in this event, special trophy for non-resident high-gun. Competitors will have targets added to their scores according to their last year average and known ability.

Second event on the program is the international skeet team shoot, each member blasting away at 25 birds. If time permits there will be a 50-target all-bore event.

Week-end's feature, though, will be the 100-target event at 16 yards for provincial laurels at the trap posts. There will be trophies for the winner and runners-up in A, B, C and D classes. High gun, regardless of class, will be declared B.C. singles champ and winner of the Al Hager trophy for one year. There will be a trophy for the non-resident who posts the best score.

The big trap shoot also includes a 50-target handicap competition, a doubles battle, B.C. and international team shoots. There will be trophies for the B.C. resident and the non-resident posting the top high aggregate score in the main events, covering 200 targets. The shooter who posts the best score in the first 50 birds in Saturday's skeet events and the first 50 birds in Sunday's trap events will get a special award.

"It looks like we'll have the biggest entry ever from Washington and Oregon this year," said Roger Monteith, former president and secretary of the gun club.

Roger has already received applications from several parties from Washington to arrange for hotel accommodation for the shoot. Included are Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Butties, B. G. Sweeney, D. J. Bedford and A. C. Weaver.

"And it's a sure bet that Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Stoddard will be back with us again from Yakima, also Al Sund from Mount Vernon," Monteith said.

One of the feature writers for Sports Afield, Don Horter, will shortly come to the island. He wants a special colored picture of Monteith in the throes of battle with a rainbow trout in Cowichan River for the well-known sports magazine.

Trout fishing on this end of the island is almost completely finished until the cooler days of fall.

Reports reaching us indicate that steelhead fishing at the present time is very good where Nahmint River comes into Alberni Canal.

The present offering off Saanichton Spit and area is blue-backs, springs, cod and the dogfish. Some fishermen spinning offshore have done quite well.

Saanichton Inlet fishing fell off rather badly last week-end, but boathouse operators say there has been a pick-up.

May Hall, Goldstream boathouse, was quite frank about the whole thing:

"Some people are getting big salmon... but most of the people have come back with exactly nothing," she said.

Bill Johnston of Wilson and Lefstey tells us he got a telephone call from Dunc Turner, Qualicum Beach store operator, Thursday, reporting that salmon up to 20 pounds are being taken in the waters off there.

Fishing is also reported good in Campbell River and also in the saltchuck, Victoria's Harry Johnston, Alex Strath and Jim Thow were trying their luck this week-end with the Buttle Lake trout. Fly fishing is reported good there at the present time.

Keen B.C.-Ontario Track Rivalry Expected

(Special to The Times)

HAMILTON, Ont., June 27—It looks like Ontario against British Columbia tonight when the Canadian Olympic trials get under way at Civic Stadium here.

B.C. athletes will see action in the 1,500, 400 and 100-metre track events and in the hurdles. Both men and women's field events will be contested.

The 1,500-metre feature will see Victoria's Bill Parnell and Oakville's John Ross in action.

Ross has the better time of the two and more meets behind him. Parnell is on his way up, while Ross, by his past two meets, is slowing down.

Says coach Bruce Humber, "never count a champion out until he's beaten, and in Canada Bill is certainly the defending champion."

Phil Matson of Victoria Navy squad is favored for a third-place slot and may set the pace for the feature runners.

In the 400-metre event it will be east and west again. Michigan's Jack Carroll of Montreal and Drake's Jim Lavery of Calgary will make competition stiff for B.C.'s Ez Henniger and Doug Clement.

Lavery is rated a slight favorite over Carroll due to the former's victory over Carroll in the collegiate nationals.

Both the men and women will run the 100-metre sprints tonight. B.C.'s girls figure to dominate their event while the west's top men sprinters will run into stiffer competition.

Strong favorite among women is Eleanor McKenzie of Vancouver, while Gerry Bemister and Louella Law could be the second runners across the line.

Victoria's Bob Hutchison and Vancouver's Bruce Springbett could renew their rivalry for 100-metre laurels, but local Hamilton sprinters will make it tough.

Don McFarlane, Don Stonehouse and Ross Coates are highly regarded by officials here. Montreal's Sandy Spence and Chuck Coveney are another two possible finalists. All these men are university students.

Victoria's Dawn Josephs will have a busy night.

Both the broad and high jumps will be run off this evening. Coach Bruce Humber does not yet know if he will let Dawn jump in both events.

Miss Josephs' best event is the broad jump. Alice Whitley is B.C.'s sure entry in the women's high jump.

Harry Nelson and Alice Foltz will be entered in the men's and women's hurdle events for British Columbia. Sprinter Harry Stafford will broad jump as well as run the 100-metre event.

John Pavlich, B.C.'s best in the weight events, will throw the shot tonight.

Torrid weather here may hurt the coast athletes, especially in the distance events.

CAPS TAKE SERIES

McIrvn May Rejoin Tyees

Vancouver 9, Victoria 2

Cal McIrvn packed his bags for Portland Wednesday night, but he may be back in Tyee garb tonight.

That's the official word from general manager Reg Patterson of the Tyees, today as the club opens a four-game series at Tri-City.

McIrvn, recalled by the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League following his victory over Vancouver Wednesday, may rejoin the club until right-hander Bob Drilling is ready to report.

Drilling was named as McIrvn's replacement when the player move was announced, but according to general manager Bill Muligan, of the Beavers, "Drilling is not yet prepared to report as his wife is expecting an addition to the family."

Patterson expected further word on the status of the two players late today.

McIrvn's return will be greatly appreciated as the Tyees were sent reeling for the third time in four nights by Vancouver Caps Thursday. Bud Guldberg limiting the Tyees to seven hits in the 9-2 Cap triumph. It was the club's first series loss at home.

Jehosie Heard was the victim and for the third straight game was chased from the hill with the Caps leading 4-1 in the sixth inning.

DEFENSE FALTERS
Joe Rajeski kept on in relief but was unable to keep the Caps in check as three Tyee errors, two by manager Cee Garriott, plus singles by Jim Wert and Bud Isham accounted for three runs in the seventh.

Eric Gard was treated in like manner in the eighth as two bases on balls, a hit batter and Gordon Brunsworth's single produced two runs.

John Treece's bases-loaded double off the top of the fence in the fourth netted the Tyees but one run as Granny Gladstone was cut down at the plate on a perfect relay.

Gladstone homered in the seventh for the second tally.

Len Tran hit a two-run homer for the Caps in the first inning and it was a 2-1 thriller for the Caps until Heard weakened in the sixth, allowing a single to Len Tran, a triple to Wert, and a single by Ray Tran, good for two runs.

Bill Wisneski will start against Tri-City tonight.

Olympic Trials Open At Hamilton Tonight

Humber Rates West Coast Athletes High on List

By JACK SULLIVAN, Canadian Press Staff Writer

HAMILTON, June 27 (CP)—An expenses-paid trip to Helsinki for more than 20 of Canada's crack men and women track and field stars is the lure today for athletes from most parts of Canada.

Officials in charge of the two-day Canadian championships and Olympic trials are laying on a program for the 175 hopefuls that will show in miniature the greatest sports festival in the world. There will be torch-carriers and releasing of pigeons, just as in the big show.

About one-sixth of the entry list will wear the Maple Leaf crest at Helsinki July 19-Aug. 3 as Canada, which hasn't shown much in the world games since the lush days of the late 20s and early 30s, tries to regain some of its lost prestige.

MUST MEET STANDARDS

Representatives from all provinces except Newfoundland, New Brunswick and Prince Edward Island will toe the tin in events ranging from the classic 100-metre and 200-metre sprints to the 10-event decathlon. Standards have been established for all events and if the various winners don't hit them, the selectors likely will pass them up.

Victorians competing in the trials include Bob Hutchison, Bill Parnell, Dawn Josephs and Phil Matson.

In one of the most colorful spectacles since this city of nearly 300,000 was host for the British Empire Games in 1930, the first gun will boom at 6:30 p.m. E.D.T. External Affairs Minister Pearson is expected to open the program, the last torchbearer will dash into civic stadium, the latches to the pigeon cages will be freed and the athletes will begin.

13 FINALS

Thirteen finals are scheduled to be decided tonight before one of the biggest crowds to witness a track-and-field meet in Canada in years. The 20,000-seat capacity Civic Stadium is practically sold out and officials are optimistic that the "S.R.O." sign will be out for the Saturday afternoon events.

There isn't an outstanding athlete on the program and the trials have all the earmarks of dog-eat-dog for a berth on the team. However, there's Ottawa's great Don McEwen, one of the best milers the country has turned out in years. Then there are Richie Ferguson, the younger star from Toronto, and John Ross of Oakville, Ont., who recently have beaten McEwen.

Ron Miller of Toronto, who represented Canada in the pole vault in the 1950 British Empire Games at Auckland, N.Z.,

Salmonacs Again Tied With Rocks

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., June 27 (CP)—New Westminster Salmonacs moved back into a first-place tie in the Intercity Lacrosse League Thursday by subduing North Shore Indians 15-10.

The Salmonacs, led by burly Alfie Wood and Bob Bremner, capitalized on Indians' inept shooting to share top spot with Victoria Shamrocks.

Light-footed Harry Preston, New Westminster goalkeeper, turned in his best effort of the season and on at least three occasions stopped breakaway shots.

Mel Jones, making his mainland season's debut with Indians, scored one goal. Salmonacs used two new players, Bill Harris, last year with North Shore, and Pat Carey. Harris notched one assist, Carey one goal.

Salmonacs rolled to a 4-0 lead after one period as Indians, playing their first game in five days, failed to untrack themselves. The margin was sliced to 6-4 at halftime. It was 10-7 going into the final quarter.

Bremner led the winners offensively with four goals and two assists. Wood added three goals. Ken Jones paced Indians with three goals.

Grant Lifts Tennis Title

Jean Grant became the first champion to be named in the Camosun Tennis Club championships Thursday night when she defeated Alpie Carnes 6-3, 3-6, 6-4 to win the women's flight final.

Lum Warne and Tommy Wilson entered the mixed doubles semi-finals by eliminating Betty Bird and Les Stillings, 6-5, 7-5.

Tonight's draw follows:
8:00—Stillings vs. Pitecock.
7:45—Smith and Grant vs. Johnson and Pitecock.
Pitecock, Pitecock and Clague vs. Davies and Speed.

Corbett Captures Junior Net Feature

No upsets were recorded Thursday night as play continued in the Pacific Northwest Lawn Tennis Association junior tournament.

Top match of the night saw Gary Corbett advance in the 18 and under division by taking a close decision from Don Thompson, 6-3, 6-3.

ALLIES LEAVE KOREA PEACE MEET AGAIN

U.N. Declares 3-Day
Recess; Reds Protest

By SAM SUMMERLIN

MINSAN, Korea, June 27 (AP)—Allied truce negotiators today walked out on the protesting Communists for the third time in a month.

Maj. Gen. William K. Harrison declared a three-day recess and marched out of the armistice tent at Panmunjom while an angry Communist delegation loudly demanded another meeting Saturday.

Harrison said North Korean Gen. Nam Il, head of the Communist truce team, had "great difficulty controlling himself" at the walkout.

A United Nations spokesman said Nam's voice "was approaching a strident scream." Harrison once got to the tent flap when Nam called "Come back. We have something to say."

The United States general said he resumed his seat and consented reluctantly, "Well, once more."

But Nam merely repeated his demand for a session Saturday.

As soon as Nam's statement was translated, Harrison and the four other Allied negotiators marched out of the tent.

"I got the impression that some of the North Korean attaches were laughing at Nam," Harrison told reporters.

The Allies have declared three-day recesses on two previous occasions when there appeared to be no hope of breaking the long deadlock over how to exchange prisoners of war, the only major issue blocking a Korean armistice. The U.N. refuses to return prisoners who do not want to go home. The Reds demand all Allied-held captives.

The Communists insist on daily meetings but Harrison said he refuses to listen to blasts of Red propaganda every day. He calls it "drivel."

Brig. Gen. William Nuckols, U.N. spokesman, noted that Chinese delegate Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang "pointedly" ignored Nam today, instead of aiding him, as previously.

BETWEEN TIMES

By MONTE ROBERTS

I have often thought how I would like to be in the advice business. Advice is always so easy to give, is usually received with gratitude and forgotten with all due speed. But I have never been able to get into the advice business, the way Dorothy Dix has, for instance. Dorothy Dix has a wonderful time, answering letters which ask her advice. The reason I cannot have a wonderful time, answering letters, is that no person writes me asking my advice. To rectify that situation, and get into the advice business in a small way, I am providing both letters and answers. If this is unethical, I can only plead over-eagerness.

Problem Letter No. 1: "I am a handsome young man with a wife, who isn't bad, but you should see the new girl in the office. Wow! What a lovely pair of eyes! That's for me. My problem is, my wife is suspicious, just because I come home with lipstick on my collar. What should I do?"—T.H.

Dear T.H.—Wear detachable collars.

Problem Letter No. 2: "My only son wishes to become engaged, with matrimonial intent, to a certain young lady. I do not wish to interfere with my only son, but this young lady is not good enough for him. I do not like her taste in clothes, she drinks coffee when any fool knows that tea is better for you, she reads books instead of learning crotchet, and, all in all, is a bad influence on my son. "My son is a very good boy, and will do nothing to hurt his old mother's feelings. In my own small way, I have done everything I can to make him happy. I know this girl will ruin his life. What shall I do?"—Anxious Mother.

Dear Anxious Mother: Do not worry. This girl cannot ruin your son's life. That has been taken care of already.

Problem Letter No. 3: "The man on my left took a two-card draw and raised. The man on his left stood pat and raised. It is my turn to draw. I have a four-card straight flush open in the middle. What shall I do?"—B.F.

Dear B.F.—Join the Foreign Legion.

I could go on, but that will give you the idea. See how proficient I am as an operator in the advice business? Send me your problem in a plain envelope, and I will send, by return mail, two of mine.

Speaking of problems, the township of Trafalgar has a sad one on its hands. Trafalgar is one mile from Oakville, which, as any Ontarian can tell you, is the city with two suburbs—Hamilton and Toronto.

Anyway, Ford Motor Co. has erected a new plant in Trafalgar, and on the highway has installed a sign reading "Ford Co. Oakville Plant."

This made the township council very sad, and they have written the company, asking to please put something on the sign so people will know they have been in Trafalgar. I suggest this time-honored phrase: "This is Trafalgar—wasn't it?"

The wedding month of June is turning out to be "divorce month" here. Supreme Court records show that since the beginning of the month 28 divorce cases have been heard in court. Thirteen more will be heard before July 1, to bring the total to 41.

One of the few remaining homes of the late 1850's—that of Capt. Henry Wootton, located on the north side of Broughton, near the corner of Quadra—is being demolished.

Capt. Wootton, grandfather of Henry and Ted King and R.A. Wootton, Q.C., of Victoria, was postmaster and harbor master of Victoria in the 1860's.

He imported redwood from California for the home on Rae Street—as Broughton was then called.

Four wandering cows cost their owner a $10 fine in Saanich police court Thursday. Fined for allowing cattle to roam at large was J. M. Perry, Burnside and Granville.

The cows wandered into a garden and damaged flowers, court was told. Perry was represented by lawyer Robert Buchanan.

A 70-year-old Saanich man, Victoria Scout and Cub leaders won a suspended sentence in will hold a picnic Sunday after Saanich police court Thursday. The picnic was at John Dean Park. All day on a charge of assault on scouts wishing to attend, causing actual bodily harm, whether they have transportation.

John Hall, 801 McKenzie, or not, should meet outside Boy was charged with assaulting a Scout headquarters, 1034 Johnson Street, Sunday at 1:30.

Advance arrangements may be made by contacting Edna Rankine at B-2952.

A man seen assaulting a 41-year-old woman in front of the Fairfield Hotel, early today escaped on foot after a chase by police officer Ray Thomas.

Thomas chased the man east on Cormorant and north on Blanshard but he disappeared. Police searched the district but could find no trace of the man.

Requests to use vacant lots as car parking areas were received at City Hall today from W. S. Pelland, 2209 Fernwood, and Mrs. Frances Allen, 378 Gorge Road East.

In both cases the lots adjoin business property and are requested for customer parking.

The Odeon Theatre played host Friday night to a group of Victoria Daily Times junior salesboys—winners of a recent sales contest.

In the group supervised by Douglas Hutchinson were: Harold Scribbs, Sadu Ram, Gerry Chow, Ted Naumtun, Allan Grahame, Billy Atkinson, Raymond Tillyer, Billy Turner, Rex Gallard, Jack Woodford, Bruce Brian, Bobby West, Sadee Ram, Glenn Thorne, Bill Harrison, Bob Allison, Douglas Quan, Dave Gallard, Don West, Michael Kachanoski, Eddie Boyles, Jacques Singh and Sant Ram.

Soft drinks and hamburgers rounded out the evening.

Three motorists were fined a total of $110 in police court today on driving charges.

Fined $35 for violation of a driver's license restriction was Keimpe K. Spoor.

Careless driving cost Bernard H. Atkins, 1306 Slater, $35, and Frank W. Danks, 3943 Telegraph Bay Road, $40 and a license suspension.

These are actually longer sharp at 9 a.m., Thursday, July 3.

Present plans call for the counters, now under intensive training, to work from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. "with adequate breaks in between for food."

No Scientific Proof Flying Saucers Exist But Even Astronomer Won't Deny Possibility

Flying saucers may exist—but if they do, they have not been seen by a qualified astronomical observer, and there is no scientific proof of their existence.

This is the opinion of Dr. Karel Hujer, brilliant Czech astronomer, who is attending the joint session of the American Astronomical Society and the Astronomical Society of the Pacific in Victoria.

"I have not observed any phenomena which might be called a 'flying saucer,'" he said.

"Nor have I heard or read of any other qualified observer noting an unexplained object in the sky."

"I do not say there are no flying saucers. I say there is no scientific evidence to support claims of their existence."

Dr. Hujer is a confidant of Einstein, and has traveled the world over studying scientific methods in nearly every country.

Dr. Hujer takes a gloomy view of civilization today, regards it as "already rotting and due for collapse."

He is sure civilization, especially in Europe, is on the downhill road, because "our culture has become purposeless—grocery, sleep, amusement, grocery, sleep, amusement."

The Czech scientist is now associated with Jones Observatory, Chattanooga.

Totems Found in Trunk May Be Chief's Work

By HUMPHRY DAVY

A valuable collection of miniature, hand-carved Indian totem poles, owned by Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Carter, 777 St. Patrick Street, has aroused the interest of the anthropological department of the University of British Columbia and the Provincial Museum.

The Haida totems, carved from argillite, a slate-like material found in the Queen Charlotte Islands, were almost forgotten in a trunk containing personal family belongings. The collection contains 13 totems varying in size from six to 18 inches, one peace pipe and four carved plates.

Mrs. Carter rediscovered the totems after reading a newspaper report that U.B.C. had lost a plate from its valuable collection of argillite Indian carvings. She then remembered seeing the carvings among personal belongings in the trunk.

She immediately informed the university of the collection, and U.B.C. is now considering sending an anthropologist to examine it.

The provincial museum, which is building up a collection of argillite carvings, is also interested.

Mystery surrounds the origin of the carvings. The totems reveal only that they are work of a highly skilled craftsman.

Commission Approves Department Plan To Conform With Budget Limitations

Reorganization of the city police department to conform to 1952 departmental budget limitations was announced today by Police Chief John Blackstock.

It was approved by the three-man police commission. The following changes will go into effect shortly:

Two additional men will be added to the 10-man detective department because, said the chief, the "department is not able to carry out investigations successfully with the present staff."

Court officer Sgt. William Andrews and Acting-Sgt. Richard Berry will become detectives—Andrews' appointment effective Aug. 18 and Berry's, on a six-month trial basis, July 7.

Two constables now engaged in investigation work on the early morning shift will revert to patrol duty.

Traffic Sgt. Robert Davidson will return to the patrol division. Chief Blackstock said he had requested eight new constables at the beginning of the year, but this request was not granted because of budget restrictions.

The loss of three constables recently—two to the R.C.A.F. and one to the R.C.M.P.—will not be replaced.

FOURTH RESIGNATION Commission approved a fourth resignation of a traffic officer, who will leave June 30 for the R.C.A.F.

This drew comment from the chief that "two or three more men are thinking of joining the air force" from the department. Higher pensions were given as the reason.

All uniformed constables and motorcycle officers from the traffic office, except traffic Sgt. Brooke Douglas and nine constables engaged in accident investigation, will be amalgamated under the uniform inspectors.

Only two motorcycle officers will be engaged in marking parked cars. They will be assisted by patrol constables.

There will be no replacement for Const. James Strong, due for retirement in October. He had been engaged in delivering summonses, a job which will be taken over by prowler car and motorcycle officers.

PROWLER CAR CUT No prowler cars will be available on the 7 a.m. to 3 p.m. shift. One acting-sergeant will be named for the summer to replace acting-sergeant Berry.

Chief Blackstock said the first and third reliefs—11 p.m. to 7 a.m. and 3 a.m. to 11 p.m.—operate six men on beat duty but "two men are off each day on leave," giving only four men available for each shift.

The chief said this does not take into account sick leave and overtime.

No new police vehicles will be bought this year, the chief added.

No Policy Parley As High Liberals Meet in Victoria High officers of the B.C. Liberal Association in Victoria today held their first post-election meeting.

No statement was made regarding the nature of the meeting, but it is understood no policy making will be done and only business matters requiring action are being dealt with.

Premier Byron Johnson is not attending.

Mrs. J. L. Gates, president, said Thursday no policy discussion will be held and no action will be taken to call an executive meeting of the party.

Police Refuse Speed Check When Evidence Is Queried A suggestion in Saanich police court that a municipal police officer test the top speed of a truck belonging to a driver charged with speeding drew a firm "no" from Saanich Police Chief Josiah Bull.

Charged with exceeding a 30 m.p.h. speed limit on the East Saanich Road was Alfred B. Wood, 206 Menzies.

Saanich prosecutor Lloyd G. McKenzie told the court Thursday that Chief Bull declined to have a constable test the speed of the truck because of the "civil liabilities involved."

Police said Wood was travelling at 70 m.p.h. when stopped but the defendant claimed the truck would not travel at that speed.

Wood said he had his speedometer checked and it was "four miles slow."

He said he was travelling at a registered 50 m.p.h., and added that if the speedometer was slow, he was actually travelling at 46 m.p.h.

Said Mr. McKenzie: "The way I read it (referring to a letter from the company which tested the speedometer), is opposite to what you say."

The case was adjourned to July 3 to clear up this point.

Cut the Bakery Bill By Making Doughnuts

By PENNY SAVER

Say! This sounds like fun!
How would you like to make your own doughnuts?
Have no fear. When I make a suggestion like that you can rest assured that I have a proven gadget at hand to back up my suggestion.

My one problem, though, is to try and describe this gadget that will make the doughnuts.

One thing I can say for sure is that it costs $1.25.
It is shaped like a large cup and running right through the middle is a stem which acts as a plunger. You fill the cup with batter, push the plunger, and low-and-behold, it releases a big puffy ring of batter.

The gadget comes in a cardboard container and on this is printed four delicious dough-nut recipes.

One filling of batter will make 24 dough-nuts.

The plunger idea also applies to another handy gadget to have around the house.

It is the German cherry pitter. The price for this is 89 pennies and I'm telling you, it does a wonderful job.

For $1.25 you can buy a larger size pitter which is good for everything from cherries to plums.

Keep this in mind with the preserving season creeping up on us.

Just like the "good ol' days."
That's what you'll say when you see the Danish old-fashioned cork hot plates.

The basic plate is made of sturdy Danish wood and inlaid in this is the cork. Prices range from 75 pennies to $1.50 and the hot plates come in all shapes and sizes.

Also imported from Denmark is a lazy-Susan tray. You know, they are the circular trays which are on a swivel.

In this case the tray is made of Danish wood and the sections are glass. At convenient intervals there are neat little knobs to aid in turning the tray.

They sell for $4.50.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Clean Pores Carefully, Don't Bruise Facial Tissue

Q. "What causes blackheads on the side of the nose? How can I get rid of them?"

A. The oil glands on the nose are often more active than on other parts of the face. The pores become clogged with dirt and oil and therefore enlarge. Buy one of those little blackhead removers and remove the blackheads. First though, cleanse the face carefully and team it. Do not bruise the tissues. Apply alcohol afterwards. From then on, wash your nose with soap and water several times a day and use an astringent.

Q. "I am 16 years old and am 5 feet 5 inches tall. I would be quite attractive if my jaws didn't look so fat. The skin under my chin is also flabby and I am afraid it will develop into a double chin. Please print some exercises as soon as possible. I want to get rid of this soon."

A. The fullness about the jaw and under the chin sound as though you might be a little chubby although this is not necessarily so. Do this exercise. Lower the head backward as far as comfortable. Raise the head and drop the chin to the chest. Continue lowering and raising slowly. You will feel the stretch under the chin. Also remember your posture. Push toward the ceiling with the top of your head, chin parallel to the floor.

Q. "My friends tell me I am the right size but I think I am chubby. What do you think? I am 5 feet 2 inches tall and weigh 145 pounds. My bust measures 38½ inches; waist, 26 inches, and hips 39 inches. Also, I have little hard goose pimples all over my hips and thighs. I can't get rid of them. What can I do? My skin is very dry."

A. Do not let your friends fool you. You are about 20 pounds overweight. However you are well proportioned. Adopt a sensible diet and lose those burdensome pounds. Both extremely dry skin and the bumpy condition you describe can come from vitamin deficiency. Watch your diet and ask your physician to prescribe vitamin capsules for you. If you missed my Nine-Day reducing diet which ran recently, you may have the Nine-Day Diet booklet by sending 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Q. "I have three small children. I am 5 feet and 1 inch tall and weigh 110 pounds. My bust measures 34 inches, waist 24 inches, and hips 34 inches. How are my measurements and how much should I lose?"

A. Your measurements are perfect and you should not lose any. It's wonderful to be able to send the happy word along!

Between Ourselves

By ELIZABETH FORBES

Miss Margaret Clay, head of Victoria's public library, is telling a good story on herself these days.

Seems that after the Canadian Library Association meeting at Banff last week some of the delegates came on to the Pacific Coast for a quick look at this side of British Columbia.

Included in the group were two very good friends of hers, Miss Elizabeth Morton and Miss Mary D. Morton.

They are sisters and both prominent in library work in Ottawa; Elizabeth an executive secretary of the Canadian Library Association and Mary D. as chief librarian of the Department of National Health and Welfare.

As everyone knows, Margaret Clay is very proud of Victoria. And doubly proud of the new library building here. When the Morton sisters decided to come through to the coast she immediately made plans to "show them the town."

It was to be a one-day visit. So the itinerary was arranged very carefully. Luncheon and dinner, tour of the city, tour of the Parliament Building and, of course, a complete tour of the public library building.

Last named tour came late in the day but the Misses Morton expressed a wish to see "everything." So, the three friends moved from room to room in leisurely fashion, Miss Clay explaining and the Misses Morton exclaiming over the children's library, the modern bookshelves, the section reserved for a music room, the reference department and the reading room.

When the tour was completed on the top floor of the library building, Miss Clay suggested there was one more thing she'd like to show the sisters. A view of Victoria from the roof.

The Misses Morton thought this was something they could not miss. So the trio climbed the iron stairs.

The view was "perfect." Sun shining. Skies blue. And the three friends enjoyed the panorama for at least half an hour.

Locked Door Presents Major Problem

It was when they were ready to descend the iron stairs again that Miss Clay discovered she had forgotten to take the catch off the door leading on to the roof. It was closed tight and the trio were trapped.

"Our building doesn't look very high from the street," Miss Clay says, "but try looking over a parapet and down four stories. Then try shouting to attract the attention of anyone passing by and it is a different story."

She confesses she "doesn't really like heights." But she took firm hold of the parapet, leaned out and looked down. Then she started to shout.

"I called 'Hi'" she tells you, "I shouted 'look up here' and I yelled 'we're locked on the roof.' But no one heard me."

"I tried calling louder . . . and louder," she says. "And finally, praise be, a young man stopped. 'He seemed very startled when he looked up and saw me making faces at him from the roof. But he did seem to understand that I wanted him to go into the library and tell them where we were.'"

The trio waited five minutes. Ten minutes. Fifteen minutes. Then, just as Miss Clay was getting set to start shouting again, steps were heard on the stairs. The door opened and the janitor came out, all ready to give "them females" a few words of advice on going up there without permission.

He had taken his time about releasing "them females," too. Just to give them a bit of a lesson.

When he saw Miss Clay he was so surprised he forgot his tirade.

And, she tells you, all he could say as the trio marched by him and down the iron stairs, was "My gosh, boss! How did YOU get locked out on the roof?"

Miss Christina Crawley, nine-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Crawley, Edmonton, Alta., arrived by plane today to spend the summer at the home of her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Crawley, 60 Beach Drive. Her parents will join her at the end of July.

Party for Miss Stevenson

Miss Paula Stevenson was honored last night at a handkerchief shower given by Miss Pamela Butcher and Mrs. J. Butcher at their Royal Oak home. A bouquet of red rosebuds was presented to the bride-elect and a rose bouquet to her mother, Mrs. G. C. Stevenson. Mrs. M. Day, sister of Miss Stevenson, presided at a tea table covered with a damask cloth and centred with pinks and orange blossoms. Guests were Mesdames K. Langdon, M. Day, F. Frankland, R. Yuen, and Misses Meg Jones, Shirley Cameron, Marion McLean, Pat Garrard, Peggy Wadsworth, Noel Bechtel and Pat Bechtel.

Will Visit Here From England

Mrs. Matthew Halton, wife of the well-known writer and news commentator, is arriving in Vancouver from London, England, by air in mid-July, accompanied by her children, Kathleen and David.

Mrs. Halton and Kathleen will be guests of Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Johnston in the Mainland city and David will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Wootton there.

Later they will be joined by Mr. Halton who is going to Labrador to do a series of broadcasts.

Mrs. Halton will come to Victoria to visit her husband's brother, Mr. Seth Halton and his wife, and en route home will visit in Rochester, Minn., as the guest of Mrs. Herbert Schmidt.

Mrs. Eva Shea, accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. William Johnson, both of Winnipeg, will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Shea, 186 Townley Street, for a few weeks.

Mrs. Frank Stevenson, Niagara Falls, is the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Stevenson, for the summer. A short time ago, Mrs. Stevenson's mother, Mrs. William Colquhoun, Vancouver, was their guest.

A shower in honor of Miss Shirley Irwin, July bride-elect, was held recently at the home of Mrs. H. C. O'Donnell. A corsage of roses was presented to the bride-elect, and Mrs. A. L. Irwin, her mother, and Mrs. J. F. Stamford, mother of the groom-elect, received carnations. Guests were Mesdames W. Stamford, H. DuRusell, H. Pauls, W. Heinrich, L. Lamb, R. Hull, C. Short and Miss M. Stamford.

The final pre-wedding fete for Miss Marcia Western, who will marry Mr. Gaston David Morant on Saturday evening, took the form of a pantry shower given by co-hostesses Mrs. K. Cooke and Mrs. A. Hicks at the home of the former, 4167 Carey Road. Gifts for the bride-elect were contained in a grocery carton, covered with large pastel bows. Refreshments were served from a lace-covered table with a centrepiece of pyrethrum and snapdragons. Present were Mr. and Mrs. T. Browne, Mrs. F. Burns, Mrs. W. W. Smith, Mrs. H. S. Halton, Mr. B. Burns, Mr. D. Morant, Mr. K. Cooke, Mr. A. Hicks and Misses Catherine Smith, Patricia Smith, Phyllis Brown, Barbara Cooke and Lois Burns.

Diet Vital Measure For Child's Teeth

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D.
Not being a dentist, the writer of this column has said little about the care of the teeth. But the scope of the problem is enormous.

It is said that more than 22 million newly-decayed teeth develop each year among the 38 million children between 6 and 18 years of age in the United States. It is also claimed that 35 out of 100 grownups have artificial teeth.

Concession Given For Development Of Elk Lake Beach

Development of a beach and concession at Elk Lake, proposed by two Victoria men, received City Council approval Thursday.

Application of H. H. Chapman and C. Appleby for a five-year lease and an additional five-year option on the property was approved, subject to the lease papers being satisfactory to the Victoria-Saanich beaches and parks committee.

The two men plan to spend $5,000 the first year on the area with the idea of making a "first rate" beach. They hope to have start made on clearing by July 1.

Double Charge Brings $65 Fine To Motorist

A Saanich man was fined a total of $65 in municipal court, Thursday, on two driving charges arising from a collision with another car.

Fined $35 for careless driving and $30 for having no driver's license was John McMillan, 320 Burnside.

Court was told McMillan collided with a car while backing his own vehicle out of a driveway.

Thomas R. Merrick, Cowichan Station, drew a three-month restriction on his driver's license as the result of a dangerous driving charge laid earlier in the week by Saanich police.

Magistrate H. C. Hall told Merrick that he would only be permitted to drive his car during this period "when there are no reasonable means of transportation available."

Merrick told the court he was a C.N.R. fireman and had to travel some distance to his work both here and on the mainland. He had already paid a $75 fine Monday.

Merrick was represented by lawyer George Gregory.

Everyone can help to reduce tooth decay. One measure which is particularly important for children is the maintenance of a good diet, which contains adequate amounts of milk and milk products, fruits, vegetables, cereals, eggs, lean meat, poultry, fish and whole grain bread.

In fact, anything which aids the body to keep in good health, including diet, also apparently helps to prevent tooth decay.

Mouth cleanliness is one of the most important measures. Food particles readily lodge in the teeth, where they decay rapidly, and in doing so injure the hard surfaces of the teeth.

The most desirable practice is to brush the teeth after each meal, but if this can't be done, rinsing the mouth carefully would help some.

Those grownups who do not already know it should be instructed by their dentists as to just how their teeth should be brushed, and children should receive the same instruction as early in life as possible.

In some cases, too, dental floss can be used between the teeth to clean out food particles, but in instruction in this, too, is desirable in order to avoid injuring the gums.

There is a good deal of evidence that sweets harm the hard tissue or enamel of the teeth. For this reason, candy and other sweets should be taken in moderation and the mouth always washed or rinsed immediately afterwards.

It perhaps seems unnecessary to add that both children and adults should be taken regularly to the dentist, who can identify small cavities or difficulties early and correct them promptly.

SAVE DENTAL WORK LATER

If this were done more commonly, it would save many from more extensive dental work later in life and save many teeth which may later have to be removed entirely.

All this indicates that healthy teeth are the responsibility of the individual, and even if the addition of fluorides to the public water supply proves as successful in preventing dental decay as many people hope and think, each person still has the responsibility of doing the best he or she can to preserve healthy teeth.

If there are any who want to know more on this subject, they can write for a 20-cent pamphlet called "Your Teeth—How to Save Them," published by the non-profit Public Affairs Committee, 22 East 38th Street, New York 16, New York.

Council Instructs Welfare To Assist With Food Stall

City welfare department will be instructed to distribute Surplus Food Stall cards to needy clients.

City council at its meeting on Thursday voted 6-2 in favor, following reading of a letter from Mrs. Barbara Green, operator of the stall, who charged the council's welfare committee with non-co-operation.

"I need and want the co-operation of the city welfare department, but on the other hand I must make known the fact that I am receiving opposition," Mrs. Green wrote.

Ald. Margaret Christie, chairman of the welfare committee, termed the criticism "unfair and uncalled for."

"There are nearly 3,000 names on our books," she said. "We can't distribute the cards indiscriminately. We have to investigate each one. We will require extra help."

Ald. Waldo Skilling disagreed. "The amount of work won't overtax the department. There has been petty jealousy since the scheme started. This council should give co-operation. Instruct the welfare department to distribute the cards forthwith."

There are 50 identification cards for clients of the city welfare, who on presentation of cards may receive food at the surplus food stall. Mayor Claude Harrison agreed with Ald. Skilling's motion.

"There's no one starving," said Ald. Frank Mulliner. "Mrs. Christie needs to be backed up in this."

'Good Citizen' to Receive Award at Sunday Ceremony

A highlight of the sixth annual "I Am a Canadian Day" at Cameron Pavilion, Beacon Hill Park, Sunday afternoon will be announcement of the winner of the Good Citizen's Award.

Award is presented by Native Sons of B.C., Post No. 1, and name of the recipient is a guarded secret until Sunday.

J. Stuart Keate, publisher of The Victoria Daily Times, will give the main address at the ceremony which begins at 2:30.

ISLAND DIGEST

MAYNE ISLAND, June 27—With the completion of repairs to the government wharf here, the Princess Elaine, now serving the Gulf Islands for the C.P.R., will include the island as a regular port of call.

The ship also calls at Port Washington and Ganges. C.P.R. officials have said that as wharf facilities in the islands improve, the Elaine's calls will be extended.

NANAIMO, June 27—Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Dewar, 75 and 72, respectively, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Wednesday at their Extension home.

They were married in Bannockburn, Scotland, and made their home in Extension in 1916 after two years' residence in Ladysmith.

Their seven sons and three daughters attended their anniversary party.

SIDNEY, June 27—Definite assurance that tenders for repairs to the wharf and breakwater at Sidney will be called in the fall was given Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, V.C., M.P., in the House of Commons Thursday.

Expenditure of $180,000 will include renewal of wharf head, $40,000; repairs to gantry slip and two guide dolphins, $25,000; extension of wharf head, $35,000; renewal of timber breakwater, $25,000. Balance will be spent on other repairs, new dolphins, and construction of a new float.

PORT ALBERNI, June 27—E. F. Duncan, publisher of The Twin Cities Times, has been appointed a member of the Alberni regional advisory committee for the Veterans' Land Act.

The committee considers applications of veterans, and properties sought. Applications now have surpassed the peak years of 1946 and 1947.

Mr. Duncan, formerly of Sandwick, served overseas for five years as a captain, and was manager of the Royal Bank of Canada in Port Alberni after the war.

How to write a letter

Hate to write letters? Can't find time? Can't think what to say? "It's easy! ... and it can be fun," says Cameron Shipp in July Reader's Digest.

One secret, says Shipp, is to forget the formal rules — as the best writers often do. No law requires you to use pen and ink — what's the matter with pencil? Why write a whole letter at one sitting? Why not a few lines at a time?

Here are helpful tips and seven simple rules to make letters fun to write and fun to read.

Get your July Reader's Digest today: 38 articles of lasting interest, condensed from leading magazines, current books.

Belles on Their Toes

Charming Myrna Loy and good-natured Edward Arnold make a try at an old-fashioned waltz in "Belles on Their Toes," Twentieth Century-Fox technicolor comedy which starts today at the Dominion.

DUNCAN, June 27—Eight girls from Duncan and Chemainus will compete for the title of Miss Cowichan Lumber Queen at the Dominion Day celebration, and the right to enter the contest in Vancouver for Miss P.N.E. of 1952.

They are Joy-M. Peterson, Rosemary Wallace, Kerry Langtry and Barbara McNeil of Duncan, and Margaret McBride, Valerie Lloyd, Margaret Savory and Marion Bowles of Chemainus.

LADYSMITH, June 27—July 1 celebration here, to be sponsored by the Lions Club, will include a parade at 1 p.m., to be followed by children's sports, loggers' sports and a softball tournament final game.

Leading off the celebration will be the crowning of Maureen Davis as Loggers' Queen. Her attendants will be Dorcas Grafton and Marilyn Clarke.

Ald. Tom Bertram is chairman of the celebrations committee.

City to Build Better Boat Docks

Facilities for local and visiting yachtsmen will be enhanced in Victoria by a $5,000 enlargement to the Inner Harbor float.

City Council, Thursday, approved the expenditure from contingencies vote.

It is proposed to install electric power and water service. Ald. Brnt Murdoch said Victoria was one of the few places where persons could bring their yachts right into the heart of the city.

The Inner Harbor will also be cleaned up—to the extent of $700.

Pictures of Queen Elizabeth and her consort will be obtained to hang in the council chamber over the mayor's desk.

Town Planning Commission's request for amendment of the zoning by-law to help preserve the character of Rockland Avenue district was approved.

SOLARIUM DIRECTOR
Ald. Margaret Christie was named to the board of directors of the Solarium on resignation of Dr. J. D. Hunter. Council approved appointment of Mrs. Elizabeth McMillan Maunsell to Greater Victoria School Board. Council accepted a quit claim deed to 700 acres in Goldstream Park, submitted by Greater Victoria Water District.

Question of inter-municipal ownership of the Arts Centre will be discussed by the city with adjacent municipalities.

MORE PEOPLE PREFER B-A 88 & 98 GASOLINE THAN EVER BEFORE

A recent survey by an independent research panel showed that more people than ever before prefer B-A. The rise and fall in gasoline preference by Canadians, between 1949 and 1951 is shown on the chart. B-A leads all other oil companies for increased preference and popularity.

All the laboratory tests in the world, and all the claims made for a product are meaningless until the public has made the one real test—actual use of the product. And in the case of B-A 88 and 98 gasolines, the motoring public have given their approval. In 1949 and again in 1951 the simple question "Which gasoline do you prefer?" was asked of thousands of motorists by an independent panel. B-A showed a gain of nearly twice its nearest competitor in public preference. If you haven't tried B-A 88 or 98 gasoline lately, get a tankful and find out for yourself why more people than ever before prefer B-A. You'll find that economy and power are the two main reasons!

FILM REVIEW

TWO FOR THE SHOW

AA (Oscar class).
 A (Don't miss).
 B (Worthwhile).
 C (To put in time).

By PHIL LEE

(A) SOMETHING TO LIVE FOR (Royal)—Although it stars Ray Milland and deals with the perils of chronic alcoholism, "Something To Live For" is only the cork from the grim bottle that made the gripping, documented story of a dipsomaniac, "The Lost Weekend," which won for Milland an Academy Award.

Paramount's latest "lush" picture deals with the woman's side of the story. Jenny Carey (Jean Fontaine) is an actress whose good roles disappear into bottomless martinis.

In her cups she seeks the helping hand of the boys and girls who know all about hangovers and little men—the A.A.'s. Reformed drunkard Alan Miller (Ray Milland) answers the call, helps her regain her sobriety, a good role but, while doing so, falls in love.

At home, Miller's wife Edna (Teresa Wright) senses something is decidedly wrong with her advertising-executive husband and divines the reason while sitting in the theatre with Alan watching Jenny act. It is this love triangle surrounding the ever-present temptation of the wine flagon; the determined efforts of Jenny and Alan to stay apart, and the understanding of Edna, that makes "Something To Live For" a better-than-average love story.

My A rating goes not so much to story content and plot but as a salute to the excellent taste and restraint of director George Stevens and, above all, to three wonderful actors, Milland, Fontaine and Wright.

Full Season Of Concerts For Park

Twenty-five concerts and a number of church and other services are slated for Beacon Hill Park between now and Aug. 31.

City Council at its meeting Thursday approved 45 events which started May 11. They include special "day" services, church services, band and orchestral concerts and variety shows.

Royal Canadian Navy Band, B.C. Electric Band, Salvation Army and Light Orchestra Concert are among the groups to entertain. Fred Usher's Home-towners will put on several Friday-night shows in August. The Gerry Gosley Show will also appear one evening.

My A rating goes not so much to story content and plot but as a salute to the excellent taste and restraint of director George Stevens and, above all, to three wonderful actors, Milland, Fontaine and Wright.

At home, Miller's wife Edna (Teresa Wright) senses something is decidedly wrong with her advertising-executive husband and divines the reason while sitting in the theatre with Alan watching Jenny act. It is this love triangle surrounding the ever-present temptation of the wine flagon; the determined efforts of Jenny and Alan to stay apart, and the understanding of Edna, that makes "Something To Live For" a better-than-average love story.

'Radio Showcase' Gives Youth the Spotlight

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON
 Youthful talent will get its chance again this summer, in a broadcast, audience-participation show that is a second edition of the 1950 "Spotlight on Youth."

The new 13-week series of programs is being presented by Woodward's Stores every Thursday night from the stage of the Royal Theatre, where it is recorded and later broadcast over radio station CJVL.

Presented under the title of "Woodward's Radio Showcase," it had its sendoff last night with an encouraging pat on the back from Fred Usher, who reminded the audience that the idea had been born originally in the mind of youthful Hugh Curtis.

The talented young team of Curtis as emcee, Jacqueline Sawyer, musical director, and Stan Peters, announcer, took over and unveiled the "Showcase" with a flourish.

Special guests were Ray Petch, pianist and winner of the 1950 series, who, as a non-competitor, opened the show with some pulsating keyboard rhythm, and lovely Gayle Webster, "Miss B.C. Products Fair."

Ed Sapala, accordionist; Ted Dawson, baritone saxophonist; David Price, pianist; Norma

Greig, vocalist, and the Bob Hurst Esquires, a streamlined instrumental group, were the competitors.

A total of 50 young musicians will be featured in 10 weeks of regular competition in which the audiences are asked to act as judges, balloting for their favorite each week. There will be two semifinals and a final grand concert.

Winner of the full series will receive a cash prize of $100 and runners-up will receive other cash awards. The program goes "on stage" at 8.30, with the broadcast an hour later.

Catholics Urged to Wider Public Life

Roman Catholics are urged by the Most Rev. William M. Duke, archbishop of Vancouver, to take a more active part in public life in British Columbia.

The archbishop, addressing a banquet given by the Knights of Columbus, Victoria Council, at the Sirocco Club, Thursday, said he felt that Catholics were not represented adequately in public life.

"We only have ourselves to blame," he said. "We should take a more active part."

With regard to the public's leaders, the archbishop said that he felt they deserved to be more honored for their services to this province.

The banquet was held to honor the Most Rev. James M. Hill, Bishop of the Diocese of Victoria, who on Saturday will celebrate the sixth anniversary of his election to the See of Victoria. He was installed Sept. 5, 1946.

The occasion also marked the first public appearance of the popular churchman since he fell ill last fall.

His Excellency was presented with a television set by Gerald J. Sullivan, Grand Knight-Elect of the Knights of Columbus, Victoria Council.

Thanking the Catholic community, Bishop Hill said: "My only thought and emotion at this moment is a deep sense of gratitude."

Willard Ireland, provincial archivist, in an address, traced the history of the Roman Catholic Church in British Columbia.

With regard to the past history of the province, Mr. Ireland said too many people thought the pioneering days "are over and done with."

"Pioneering is still going on," he said. "Pioneering means having the courage to face new situations."

Presentation of honorary and honorary life membership certificates in the Knights of Columbus were made to many members. Presentations were made by Frances J. McKinnon, state deputy of the K. of C. for B.C., from Cloverdale.

John Hart, former premier, and J. A. McLellan, former Victoria police chief, each received honorary memberships. Eighty-eight-year-old C. F. Kelpin, the oldest K. of C. in Canada, was awarded a life membership certificate.

Others to receive honorary life memberships were: C. H. Cagnat, M. Doyle, J. E. Loughlin, F. J. Sehl and J. Smith.

Honorary memberships went to: A. R. Bally, W. J. Cashman, E. A. Colbert, J. J. Connaghan, A. A. Cownden, M. Fagan, P. S. was due to electric shock.

Fagan, P. Gospodar, J. E. Kenny, J. Kilcoyne, J. D. Kissinger, E. J. Leonard, Joseph Thwaites, W. A. Mulcahy, E. McAdams and J. Neary.

Michael J. Griffin, Grand Knight of Victoria Council, acted as chairman.

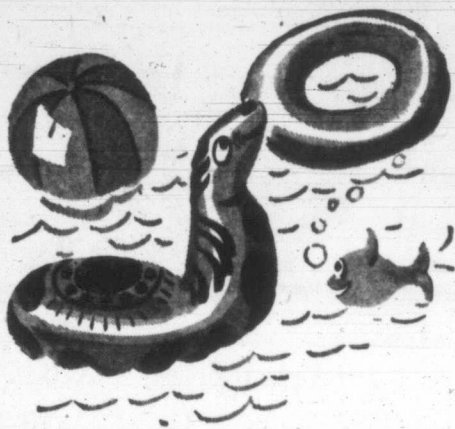

Tot Electrocuted In Freak Mishap

WEYMOUTH, Mass., June 27 (AP)—Three-year-old Linda Pekenan was electrocuted Thursday when her perspiration-soaked body became wedged between a short-circuited floor lamp and a metal radiator as she chased her pet kitten in the living room of her home. Doctors said death was due to electric shock.

MONUMENTS TO AILING EVA PERON OKAYED

Buenos Aires, Argentina, June 27 (Reuters)—The Chamber of Deputies Thursday night approved a bill to erect a monument in Buenos Aires to Eva Peron, ailing wife of the President. Twenty-four replicas will be built in the capitals of all provinces and territories.

PRICE: 7 CENTS
SATURDAY, 10 CENTSGUNTHER'S U.S. ELECTION
SERIES STARTS SATURDAY

At its convention in Chicago starting July 7, the Republican Party of the U.S. will choose its presidential candidate for 1952.

Because of the importance to world affairs of the man the U.S. selects as its next president, Canadians are almost as interested in the party's choice as are Americans. To acquaint its readers with the story of what is going on in the U.S. tomorrow will publish the first of a series of five articles by John Gunther, famed author of "Inside Europe," "Inside U.S.A." and other books.

His series, written exclusively for the NEA service and The Times will be entitled "Inside the Republican Party" Starting tomorrow it will be carried daily thereafter.

BULLETINS

Boy Survives Mishap in Pool

William Mariotti, about nine, of 520 Toronto Street, was taken to St. Joseph's Hospital this afternoon for observation after being rescued from the six-foot mark in the Crystal Garden by Fred Ellison, instructor. The lad was revived before leaving in the city police ambulance. It is believed he slipped at the edge of the pool and fell.

Post Election Meet for Liberals

Officers of the B.C. Liberal Association, meeting here today, decided to hold another meeting immediately after the election is decided, president Mrs. J. L. Gates said this afternoon.

The party's position and future action will be discussed at the party.

Manson Rules Against Picketing

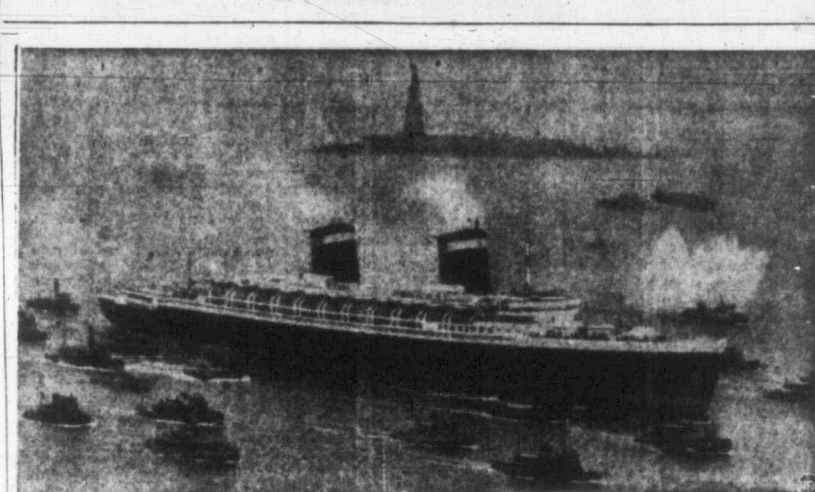

VANCOUVER, June 27 (CP)—Mr. Justice A. M. Manson today granted an injunction restraining the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.) Local 1387, New Westminster, and three of its officers, from picketing the mill of Tidewater Forest Products Ltd. at Port Kells.

Fire Chief Hits Pressure Groups

REGINA, June 27 (CP)—J. Arnold of Toronto, director of the Dominion Association of Fire Chiefs, said here that some pressure groups are trying to destroy concerted efforts to standardize fire-fighting equipment.

Highway Said Shorter But Rough

FAIRBANKS, Alaska, June 27 (AP)—The first travellers to reach Alaska via the Hart Highway have arrived here and pronounced the road "shorter but muddy and rough." The travellers reported the wooden bridge across the Parsnip River in British Columbia, which had been the missing link in the route, was completed on Sunday, June 22, and a 35-car convoy crossed at 5:30 p.m.

Operators Turn Down
Proposal By L.R.B.

Forest Industrial Relations Ltd., spokesman for 162 coastal logging and lumber operators, today rejected a second proposal from the Labor Relations Board to bring an end to the 13-day strike of 32,000 coastal loggers.

The board's proposal suggested resumption of bargaining July 4, to last until July 15, and with no question of legal status arising and no men returning to work.

Last week the International Woodworkers of America (C.I.O.-C.C.L.), representing the loggers and millworkers, turned down a board suggestion involving returning to work and taking part in a government-supervised strike vote.

F.I.R. Ltd. rejected the proposal because they "bargained in good faith and obeyed all terms of the L.C. and A. Act."

"There can be no basis whatever for good industrial relations unless employers, employees and the Labor Relations Board preserve the laws and respect the sanctity of signed contracts," it stated in a letter to the board.

L.W.A. STUDYING
J. Stewart Alsbury, president of the I.W.A. district council, said from Vancouver at press time, that the proposal was being considered.

"There will be an announcement as soon as possible," he said.

The labor board suggested that negotiators of both factions meet July 4 to renew bargaining before a mutually agreed-upon mediator.

It proposed that this new bargaining continue until agreement has been reached or until a termination date mutually accepted.

The termination date for bargaining should not be earlier than July 15, the L.R.B. suggested.

The proposal does not include a request for the workers to return to work before negotiations resume, as in last Saturday's L.R.B. proposal. Operators have been refusing to resume negotiations while the workers are engaged in an admittedly illegal strike.

LEGAL STATUS
Apparently aimed at getting around this situation, however, the L.R.B.'s latest proposal suggests that "questions of legal status be deferred during negotiations without prejudice to either or any party."

Included in the references of negotiation, the board suggested, will be mutually satisfactory arrangements for reopening of operations, and effective dates of the agreed wage scales.

Vancouver Stocks
Closing Prices

Steady trade at Vancouver exchange in final session today left stock prices firm at the close with fractional gains posted in base metals and western oils mostly unchanged. Industrials were strong.

Estella was active and finished at $1.51, up 6; Quatsino closed at 46; Western Uranium $4.15. In the oils, Del Rio, Atlantic and Federated Petroleum were unchanged. Canadian Western Lumber was stronger at $8.75.

Glassworkers
Take Strike
Vote TonightBallot Follows
Award Rejection

Victoria glassworkers, members of a section of the painters' union, will cast ballots tonight in a government-supervised strike vote at the Knights of Pythias Hall.

Decision to apply for the vote followed the glassworkers' rejection of a conciliation board majority report recommending a pay increase of 9.6 cents per hour.

The union asked for increases of 50 cents for glassworkers and 60 cents for journeymen. Present wages range downward from the $1.39 per hour paid journeymen.

MEET SUNDAY

A strike vote among Victoria painters is almost complete, with a majority to date in favor of striking. A meeting of the painters' union will be held Sunday at 2 p.m. to consider further action.

REJECT PROPOSAL

Contractors in Vancouver rejected a Labor Relations Board proposal to grant a 10-cent-per-hour pay boost and other benefits, claiming that "building costs in British Columbia are at the moment the highest in the whole of Canada."

"Any proposed increase in building costs would constitute a serious threat not only to the building industry, but to the whole economy of the province," contractors announced.

BIG THREE WILL MEET WITH RUSSIA

LONDON, June 27 (AP)—The Big Three foreign ministers agreed tonight to meet with Russia on the question of the unification of Germany.

Informed sources said that was the substance of the reply to be sent to Russia by Britain, the United States and France. The three foreign ministers concluded discussion on the reply this afternoon.

Toronto Paper
Says New Spy
Arrest Coming

TORONTO, June 27 (CP)—The Telegram says today a "sensational" espionage case may be broken in Montreal during the next few days with the arrest of a Canadian journalist, born in Montreal of Russian parents.

The paper's newspaper story, a dispatch from Montreal, says the R.C.M.P. have had the man under surveillance for months and are believed ready to take him into custody.

"The charge against the man—well known to Toronto readers of the periodical and daily press—may be a technical one, but it is understood that behind it is a history of repeated contacts with Russia."

"Police information tends to substantiate the suspicion that the suspect provided a link with worldwide activities of the communist form. It is doubtful, however, whether the charge when it is laid will be literally a spy charge. The man is definitely suspected of having maintained close contacts with persons known to be Russian agents."

"He is believed to have communicated information to them, both orally on visits abroad and by letters through the United States."

Second Riot
In Kentucky
Prison Ended

EDDYVILLE, Ky., June 27 (AP)—The second rioting within 24 hours broke out at the state prison today but guards restored order within a half hour.

Warden Jess Buchanan reported no one was injured, in contrast with Thursday's rebellion in which eight prisoners were wounded by gunfire and a guard was injured.

Approximately 30 young prisoners today made three raids on the prison commissary. Guards with submachine-guns made them give up their loot and herded them back to their cells.

Any unexplained fevers, officials said, should immediately be reported to a doctor.

Apology Riles
U.S. Congress

WASHINGTON, June 27 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson is going to have to do some explaining to Congress about his reported apology to Britain for not telling that country in advance of the United States bombing last Monday of North Korean power stations.

Senator Styles Bridges (Rep.-N.H.) told the Senate Thursday the apology—if made—was a "shocking thing."

And Senator William Knowland (Rep.-Calif.), who brought the matter to the Senate's attention by reading a London news report about it, demanded that a full text of Acheson's remarks be made available to Congress.

Knowland said if Britain wants a bigger voice in the conduct of the Korean War, he would have no objection provided Britain assumes a larger share of the burden.

The London account said Acheson is reported to have made the apology to about 200 members representing both Houses of Parliament during a 20-minute meeting Thursday.

Acheson was reported to have told them U.S. officials had intended to notify Britain's defense minister, Earl Alexander, and Selwyn Lloyd, Britain's minister of state for foreign affairs.

But he is reported to have explained to a mix-up over whether a state or defense department official was to make the notification neither was informed.

The London report said Acheson justified the raid at length in his talk with the British legislators and was applauded at the end.

Boos, Shouts Feature
Hectic Ottawa Debate

OTTAWA, June 27 (CP)—The Commons was thrown into an uproar today in a side battle stemming from its continuing debate on foot-and-mouth disease.

Liberals, Progressive Conservatives and the C.C.F. entered the 15-minute scrap touched off by a Liberal's charge Thursday night that John Diefenbaker (P.C.-Lake Centre) had "reneged" on an agreement for quick passage of a bill to compensate south Saskatchewan farmers who lost cattle through the disease.

When the shouting, booing members had been calmed eventually by Speaker Ross Macdonald, this was the upshot:

1. Dr. E. A. McCusker (L.-Regina), who made the charge, accepted Mr. Diefenbaker's statement that he knew of no such agreement.
2. Dr. McCusker apologized to

Malik Becomes U.N. 'Lame Duck',
Assembly Rises Until Term Ends

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 27 (UP)—Soviet Delegate Jacob A. Malik bowed out today as president of the United Nations security council without getting anywhere on Russia's germ warfare charges against the U.S.

Malik's month-long term as head of the 11-nation council will not end officially until midnight Monday, but delegates put him on a "lame duck" status last night by adjourning until Tuesday.

When the council resumes debate on July 1, British delegate Sir Gladwyn Jebb will be sitting in the president's chair. Sir Gladwyn will preside throughout July.

Even though Malik failed in his bid to capitalize on charges that U.S. troops waged bacterial warfare in Korea, the burly Russian prevented action on an American demand for an impartial inquiry into the discredited Soviet claims.

Malik thwarted the U.S. demand, presented by Ambassador Ernest A. Gross, by using the usual Soviet stalling strategy.

He put the American request for an on-the-spot investigation by the neutral international Red Cross in third place on the agenda behind two Russian items.

Item No. 1 was a proposal by Malik for a U.N. appeal by all nations to ratify the 1925 Geneva Convention banning poison gas and germ warfare.

Item No. 2 was a Malik proposal for the blanket admission of five Russian satellites and nine Western proteges to the United Nations.

Polio Cases
On Increase In Province

Provincial health department authorities today expressed "considerable concern" over British Columbia's rising number of polio cases.

Already this year there have been 17 cases, including two deaths, one in Vancouver and the other in Cranbrook.

This total equals the amount of cases at the end of June, 1947, B.C.'s worst year for polio. Total at the end of this month could easily exceed that figure.

In the whole of last year there were 92 polio cases, including four deaths.

DANGEROUS MONTHS

With the dangerous months still to come, authorities fear cases to date indicate a bad year. The summer months are when the majority of persons are infected with the dread disease.

Health department officials listed these precautions:

1. Avoid contact with known polio cases.
2. Keep out of crowds.
3. Remember that active children are most susceptible.
4. Don't allow youngsters to become over-fatigued.
5. Don't allow them to become chilled.
6. Keep hands clean and food covered.

Any unexplained fevers, officials said, should immediately be reported to a doctor.
